Red Koreans Cut Off From Their Supplies

TOKYO (Reuter)—Communist forces in South Korea are now cut off from their sources of supply in the north, Gen. MacArthur said today.

The United Nations commander said Superfort bombing now has "just about completed" the job of cutting all Communist routes southward.

Vice Rampant In Windsor, Report Claims

TORONTO (CP)—Two provincial police inspectors reported today that vice "flourishes" in Windsor and that they must assume Windsor police officials know about it.

It includes houses of ill-fame "in close proximity to the police station" and "wholesale betting and gambling," they said. Some of it was connected with the "big-time gangster syndicate" in neighboring Detroit.

In a hard-hitting, 8,000-word report, Inspectors W. H. Loughheed and Frank C. Kelly told that they had seen and heard during a seven-week study of law enforcement in the border city.

They were assigned to the job last May after the Windsor police commission had asked provincial Attorney-General Porter to make an investigation. This followed repeated newspaper criticism of Windsor police methods and a suggestion by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan that local police had been "lax."

SQUAD BLAMED

The inspectors' report, addressed to Provincial Police Commissioner W. H. Stringer, was made public today by Attorney-General Porter.

Among its highlights is a statement that most "troubles" of the Windsor force can be laid at the doorstep of the officers assigned to morality cases.

"It seems queer," the inspectors wrote, "that disorderly houses could operate in close proximity to the police station without the knowledge of the police department."

Recommendations included enlargement of the force and setting up of a permanent morality division.

Troops' Beer Called Treason

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—"It is almost treason to ration beer to soldiers at war when they need every bit of their brains and energy to fight," Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said today.

She said delegates to the W.C.T.U. convention opening today probably would pass resolutions sponsoring the outlawing of any type of alcoholic beverages in the armed services.

The organization and "many people throughout the country, especially mothers" are alarmed at a bill introduced by Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) that beer be rationed to men in the service in the Far East, she said.

Meanwhile, a North Korean broadcast—badly garbled in reception—appeared to be saying that an Allied amphibious landing was attempted today on Korea's west coast near Redheld Seoul.

There was no confirmation from Allied sources.

The U.S. navy announced earlier that British and American warships' guns and carrier planes pounded the area from dawn to dusk Tuesday and Wednesday.

Informed sources said they believed the Reds were trying to save face on the shellacking they took in the bombardment by calling it a victory in a landing effort that was repulsed.

Associated Press field correspondents in Korea said there was no word of any activity there to support the Communist reports of an Allied landing attempt.

The Red broadcast, from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, reported a landing attempt began at 8 p.m. (7 a.m. E.D.T. today). It said the effort was repulsed and six American vessels—mostly destroyers—were sunk.

Soviet Trying To Insult U.S., Says German

BERLIN (UP)—Russia hopes to insult and incite the United States into starting a war in Europe, a fugitive leader from the Soviet Zone of Germany said today.

Joseph Rambo, one-time official in the Christian Democratic Party in Soviet-occupied Saxony, said the Russians are convinced they can defeat the U.S. in a war if only they can goad the Americans into starting it.

"The Russians will not start the war," Rambo said. "The Russians have a different tactic. They intend to insult and incite until the opponent loses his temper and attacks."

Rambo, 52, was deputy mayor of Leipzig. He fled with his family to escape possible execution for failure to co-operate with the Communists.

He said there were "few" signs of war preparation in the Soviet zone and that fewer Soviet troops could be seen there now than six months ago.

Big 3 Leaders, Pearson Debate Western Defence

NEW YORK (CP)—L. B. Pearson said today Canada enters talks among the Atlantic allies with an "open mind" on questions of western defence.

Canada's external affairs minister, emphasized, however, on his arrival in New York that Canada's present plans do not include dispatching any ground troops to the continent.

Pearson said he expected to confer today with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain and State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States to learn what has been discussed among Acheson, Bevin and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France in the Big Three meetings.

Tomorrow Pearson will plunge into a two-day round of meetings among the 12 Atlantic Pact countries, continuing work on plans to stem Communist aggression.

Pearson said it is possible a Canadian may be appointed to head a proposed information group which would be set up by the Atlantic Pact to help member countries inform the world about the aims of the defence organization.

Plans for the information unit will receive further consideration.

Helped by nurses, he stood for a full minute on his good leg, swinging the injured left leg gently.

Earlier, doctors said the 94-year-old dramatist was recovering satisfactorily.

F.B.I. Smashes Lottery Ring On Mountie Tip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Acting on a tip by Canadian Mounties, the Federal Bureau of Investigation Wednesday arrested 10 persons to smash what was described as a $2,000,000 international lottery ring.

F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover announced the arrests following a series of pickups extending from California to New York. Nine men were named in Hoover's announcement, and the F.B.I. in Los Angeles later announced the arrest of the 10th, identified as the son of one of the principals.

In Miami, special F.B.I. agent Edmund Mason described how the F.B.I. closed in on the suspects after two weeks of investigation touched off by a tip from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The Mounties, Mason said, picked up a taxi driver carrying lottery tickets at the Canadian-U.S. border. The F.B.I. then traced the tickets to Miami, where the scheme was uncovered.

SPEEDY ACTION

Mason said: "The F.B.I. has smashed this ring before it got started; agents throughout the United States and authorities in Jamaica and Canada have worked on the case for two weeks."

The Buffalo, N.Y., F.B.I. office traced the tickets to Miami. Agents in Miami traced the tickets to the Franklin Press, a commercial printing firm.

Mason said "we just let them go ahead so we could find out the entire operation—where the tickets were being sent, who was receiving them and how they were being transported."

Wheat Prices Not To Be Changed

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said today in the Commons the government is not considering making any change in the recently-reduced price spreads on initial payments for lower grades of prairie wheat.

He told John Diefenbaker, P.C., Lake Centre, Sask., that if the lower grades were sold at prices higher than those now expected this would be made up in the final payment to the farmer.

Mr. Diefenbaker said prairie producers were complaining "bitterly" about the Wheat Board's action in reducing the prices on the lower grades.

The reduction was caused by the fact early frosts have reduced the quality of much of the 1950 crop.

Attlee also stated in the House of Commons that appointments to the steel board which will run the industry would be made Monday, Oct. 2.

The motion would "regret that at this most critical period in our national safety and affairs abroad" Britain by this act of the government should be

Walker Says Ground Offensive Coming

By UNITED PRESS

U.S. and British naval vessels blasted at enemy strong points at the gateway to the port of Seoul Wednesday, and the Communist radio claimed tonight that four U.S. landing boats and three destroyers had been sunk in the Allies' mightiest air-sea bombardment of the war.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced the assault early today. It ranged over a 180-mile stretch of coast. The focal point was Inchon, 18 miles southwest of Seoul, enemy-occupied South Korean capital, and 145 miles northwest of the corner of the tiny Allied beachhead.

An AP dispatch from Tokyo said the North Korean Communist radio at Pyongyang, in a badly-garbled broadcast tonight, appeared to be saying Allied forces had attempted an amphibious landing at Inchon, the port for Seoul, on the Yellow Sea.

MacArthur said the warships steamed boldly into waters controlled by the North Koreans. The first radio word from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang claimed four landing craft had been sunk off Inchon.

Reports of the bombardment came as Allied armies plugged away at enemy bulges on the northeastern front of the 120-mile United Nations defence line. A spokesman for MacArthur said the only front on which the Communists were showing much sign of aggression at the moment is the Taegu area.

Second Pep Talk To Troops

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of U.N. ground forces in Korea, made his second pep talk to troops in two days. This time he told the 24th Division he hoped it would be the first group of troops to re-enter Seoul, when the time comes for an offensive. The time will come, he said, "in the near future."

The U.S. 1st Cavalry, fighting in the northwest corner of the beachhead, recaptured two hills which they lost Wednesday night and all but the north slope of a third, eight miles north of Taegu.

The 25th Division, on the southern front, turned back small-scale Communist attacks in brief clashes at close quarters. The Communist radio reported heavy fighting on the southern front. Such reports sometimes come before enemy attacks.

The South Korean capital division attacked at dawn to drive the Communists out of a six-mile salient southwest of Pohang. But they were slowed down by rain which swelled rivers and prevented crossings.

The republican 8th Division attacked along the Yongchow-An-gang highway from a point about six miles west of Angang, and pushed east in an effort to chase Red forces out of the area.

B-29 Superfortresses continued their stepped-up program to slash Communist communications in the southern reaches of Korea. Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commander of the Far East air forces, said air attacks had halted all large-scale traffic in Korea outside the beachhead. He received a report from the bomber command saying the B-29's had knocked out nearly all major military and industrial targets in North Korea.

More British Troops To Fly To Korea War

LONDON (Reuter)—British troop reinforcements for Korea are to be flown to the Far East almost immediately, the Air Ministry announced today.

Transport planes, each carrying about 35 men, will leave an R.A.F. station in Wiltshire, taking about eight days to reach Japan.

From there the men will be moved to Korea under United Nations arrangements.

An Air Ministry spokesman said the number of the troops going could not be disclosed for security reasons.

The War Office said the dispatch of the troops was in conformity with Prime Minister Attlee's announcement in Parliament that Britain would send a "self-contained force" to Korea.

The reinforcements were being sent to keep the Middlesex and Argyle and Sutherland Regiments in the Far East up to strength.

The British plane was a Meteor.

Sitter Saves Four, Returns To Call Fire Department

HULL, Que. (BUP)—A 19-year-old baby sitter carried four children to safety after an oil furnace exploded in their home Wednesday night, and returned through the smoke to call the fire department.

Fire officials say her prompt action also saved the home from total destruction.

They praised Francoise Laberge for taking the four children of Paul Raymond, Hull grocer, to safety within seconds after the furnace blew up and filled the house with dense smoke and flames. The children are Paul (2), Denise (5), Marie (7) and Pierre (9).

Fire fighters arrived in time to confine the flames to the basement of the home. Total damage was estimated at $2,000.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

APATHY TO THINKING

AS AN admittedly casual observer of men and things, I long ago came to the conclusion that the good old art of thinking, like the good old art of conversation, is rapidly dying of inanition and will soon be reduced to the status of a museum piece—perhaps side by side with one of the new mechanical "brains" of which we are hearing so much.

It is another victim of the flood of preconceived ideas which pours out of radios, rolls out of movie screens, or is dished out in large dollops by commentators and columnists, all pre-digested and packaged in glittering thought-saving wrappings like something out of a deep freeze. And, as with other labor-saving devices, we are more prone to accept anything which saves the remnants of our brain from work—and all the more readily if the product is gift-wrapped and standardized.

SORRY PHILOSOPHY

IT'S BAD enough when ordinary folk, like myself, find themselves resistant to thinking about things which really need thinking about. But when philosophers and savants have to give up, then the world is indeed in a parlous state as far as the thought-processes are concerned.

So I feel quite down in the dumps since learning that an organization with the intriguing title of the Society for Philosophical Inquiry has had to go out of existence for want of philosophers and savants willing to do some serious thinking for themselves instead of having other people's thoughts thrust upon them.

A WORTHY PAST

THE SOCIETY, which had its fulcrum, so to speak, at Washington, D.C., folded up the other day after a history that began in 1884, when it was founded by United States Commissioner of Education William T. Harris, who had been a professor of philosophy at George Washington University.

Its members, over the years, sat around and discussed philosophy, particularly metaphysics, which considers and wonders at the nature of things rather than at the things of nature. Men compiled and read philosophical papers or listened to them, then discussed the ideas contained therein from a lofty, calm, philosophical level.

OUT OF SEASON?

THE SOCIETY for Philosophical Inquiry met once a month "in season"—September to May or June. Which leads my own moribund bit of grey matter to wonder why just in those months? Had it anything to do with an allergy to thinking seriously—if at all—in months without an "r" in them? If so, that was a strange reaction for those whom one would expect to look upon the world as their oyster in terms of opportunity for provocative thought.

Apart from that disconcerting idea, however, the fact remains that the society has been dissolved, transcended from the existent Real into the nonexistent Ideal—or vice versa, according to the degree of philosophy you happen to possess.

DON'T WANT TO THINK

IN ANNOUNCING the dissolution of the society, the secretary mourned that it would have lived had people wanted to think. And he rather bitterly deplored the "apathy of modern man to thinking."

I can well understand his feelings over the decline of this ancient society for the encouragement of philosophical inquiry. But, at least, it went down fighting to the last, making its exit from the world of sober thought by cocking the thumb of scholarly scorn to the nose of philosophical derision at the idlers who disdain to think about anything. For the last paper read before that body just before it gave up the philosophical ghost was "The Intelligence of a Bee."

Asks U.S. Not To Wait Until Enemy Shoots

Democrat Senate Not Seeking War

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said today the United States must get over the idea that "we can't fight a preventive war."

He emphasized that he is not calling for one against Russia now. But he said the idea "is something the American people ought to be thinking about."

The influential Georgia Democrat, a member of the Senate armed services committee, told the United Press:

"I don't want to see the Department of State and the military working under the idea that we can't shoot until we're shot at."

That might have been all right before the atomic age, he said, "but we can't keep on thinking that way."

"If we wait for an enemy to hit us first, we might not even get off the ground."

Russell made it clear that he does not think the United States has yet reached the "hit before you get hit" stage.

Russell explained his views in expanding on published testimony before the Senate appropriations committee showing that he complimented Navy Secretary Francis P. Matthews on a recent "preventive war" speech. Matthews' speech drew an immediate rebuke from the State Department and President Truman disavowed such talk as "the weapons of dictators."

Matthews had told a Boston audience that the United States should be willing to pay any price, "even the price of instituting a war" to compel cooperation for peace.

Appeal Rejected

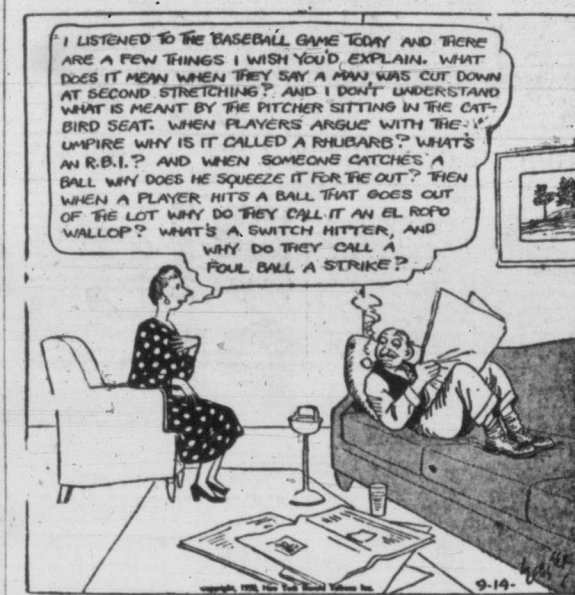

Appeal Court dismissed Wednesday the appeal of M. G. Crosbie and J. L. Backie, partners in Research Development Co., Vancouver, against a Supreme Court judgment in favor of H. L. Higgin.

The Appeal Court upheld the judgment of the lower court which ruled that Higgin was entitled to both an account of the net profits derived by Crosbie and Backie from their dealing with an invention using ultra violet rays to sterilize telephones, and also to the 10 per cent interest in the profits agreed on in the contract.

Canadian Railways Say U.S. To Blame For Freight Surplus

MONTREAL (UP)—Canada's railways put the onus on their American counterparts today for helping pile up a backlog of several hundred thousand tons of freight shipments. They previously had issued similar complaints almost every year about this time.

S. F. Dingle, operations vice-president of Canadian National Railways, said there were more than 8,000 C.N.R. boxcars in the United States than there were at this time last year.

He said this contributed to a situation where there were "not enough boxcars available on Canadian railways to take care of all immediate requirements of shippers." The Association of American Railroads had answered a plea for help by ordering U.S. roads to return boxcars empty to Canada, he said.

Dingle said the condition "resulted from the backlog of freight that piled up during the recent work stoppage on the (Canadian) railways and the abnormal number of Canadian boxcars in service on railroads in the United States."

India expects to import 385 railway locomotives this year.

Taft Holds Key To G.O.P.'s Stand On Appointment Of Gen. Marshall

By JOHN L. STEELE

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R., O.) held the key today to whether Gen. George C. Marshall's appointment as defence secretary will draw more than token opposition from Republicans.

Some G.O.P. senators have grumbled that selection of the wartime chief of staff to take over the top defence post violates the historic tradition of civilian control.

But unless Taft supports them, there was every indication the Senate quickly would approve legislation enabling Marshall to take on the job and follow that up with official confirmation of his appointment.

Taft, due back today from a round of campaigning in Ohio, heads the powerful Senate G.O.P. policy committee and often is referred to by his colleagues as "Mr. Republican."

If he chose to make a fight on the civilian vs. military control issue, extended debate was sure to result. He has given no indication thus far where he stands.

But he told a Dayton, O., audience Wednesday that President Truman alone is responsible for the nation's unpreparedness and that the switch from Louis Johnson, who resigned Tuesday, to Marshall would have little effect on administration policy.

Plans Complete For Honeymoon Bay Fair

LAKE COWICHAN—Final plans and preparations have been made for the Honeymoon Bay Garden Club vegetable and flower show to be held Saturday.

At a meeting under the direction of Mrs. B. G. LaMarsh, president, various committees were named.

W. Sanderson, secretary, reported on the large list of prizes and trophies offered at the show, which includes the Western Forest Industries Grand Aggregate Cup and the Honeymoon Bay Garden Club Challenge Cup.

He berated the President for impounding $1,000,000,000 in funds Congress voted for the air force a year ago and said the action left the nation open to the "danger of a Russian attack."

Senators William F. Knowland (R., Cal.) and Harry P. Cain (R., Wash.) raised the civilian control issue Wednesday.

They claimed it is "inconceivable that we should... say to ourselves and to the world that the civilian leadership of this great nation has so deteriorated that it cannot provide a man qualified for the post of secretary of defence."

They advanced the argument in a minority report defending their votes in the armed services committee against changing the 1947 unification law which now bans appointment of a defence secretary who has served as an officer on active service within 10 years.

Chairman Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) filed the 10 to 2 majority report which strongly supported the ban in general but endorsed a waiver in Marshall's case because of the "gravity" of the world crisis.

CAKE FLOUR

A Product of General Foods

Orange Dream Cake

2 1/2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 1/2 teaspoons Columet Baking Powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups shortening
1 1/2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Milk (see below for amount)

With butter, margarine, or lard, use 1/2 cup milk. With shortening use 1/4 cup milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, sift together 3 times. Add lemon and orange rinds to shortening and cream well; add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add flour, a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into 2 round 9-inch layer pans, 1 1/2 inches deep, which have been lined on bottoms with paper, then greased. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) about 20 minutes. Spread a lemon-flavored boiled frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. Garnish with orange sections.

CAKE TALK
by Frances Barton

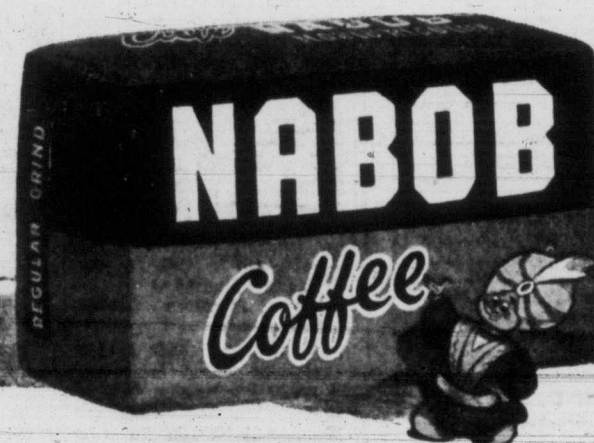

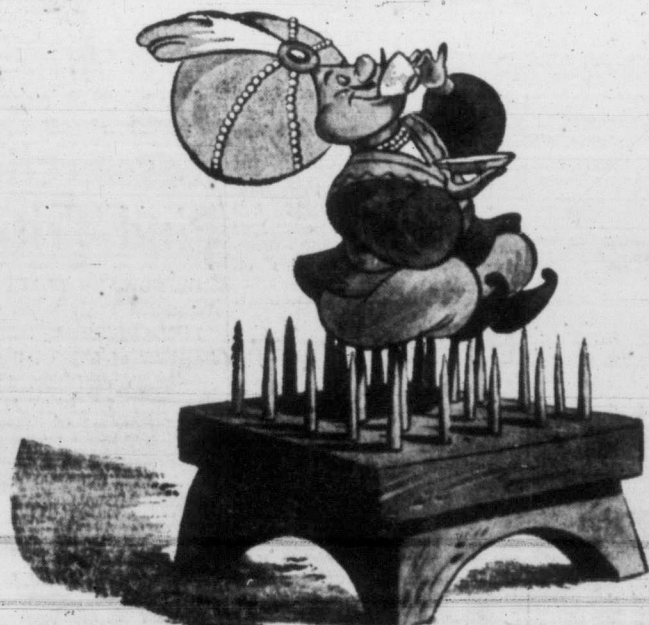

The method of mixing a cake makes a vast difference to the final results you get. Of course, choosing the best ingredients like Swans Down Cake Flour is very essential, but equally important is it to combine these ingredients properly. And so easy when you get the knack.

For butter-type cakes a beating motion is usually called for. When beating by hand, tilt bowl and lift batter with a vigorous sweeping motion of spoon around bottom, ending with a forceful upward thrust. When using an electric mixer use the low speed of the mixer and beat exactly the length of time specified. Stop the beating now and then to scrape the bowl and beaters so that all the batter comes in contact with the beater and is thoroughly blended. This applies also to hand beating.

In angel food and chiffon cakes, egg whites must be incorporated with the other ingredients without losing the air that has been beaten in. Here we use a "folding-in" motion, as illustrated in the drawing at the right. Cut edge of mixing spoon through mixtures to be combined, cut down, lift up some of the mixture and roll it over—lightly.

Big Lottery Ring Smashed By F.B.I.

R.C.M.P. Tip Leads To Arrest Of 10 'Before Racket Got Started'

M.P.'s To Meet If Force Goes Above 15,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today in the Commons that if the government decides to increase the forces available for use in Korea or elsewhere above 15,000 men the decision will be placed before Parliament.

He drew attention to an article in Le Devoir, Montreal newspaper, which he said accused him of misleading the Canadian people with respect to the number of men Canada would send to Korea.

The charge was "absolutely false," he said. The newspaper had stated the government had said it would need about 6,000 men for Korea, but an order-in-council made public last Saturday fixed the number at 15,000.

The Prime Minister said the government's plan with respect to the Korean force were made known to the public and to Parliament.

He explained why the figure of 15,000 had been fixed. The armed brigade being trained will consist of about 5,300 men. The army will also train replacements. About 9,000 men had enlisted for the special force. There had to be added to that figure 1,000 men who were being transferred to the special force from the regular army.

There were about 1,000 men in the navy now serving with the three Canadian destroyers in Korean waters. They would be replaced by others when the destroyers are recalled for refitting.

In addition, there are about 1,000 men serving in the R.C.A.F. airlift from the United States to Japan. Provision was made for replacements.

Mr. St. Laurent said that in all it was estimated about 15,000 men would be required to see that the three contingents operated efficiently.

On the lower grades. The reduction was caused by the fact early frosts had reduced the quality of much of the 1950 crop.

Soviet Trying To Insult U.S., Says German

BERLIN (UP)—Russia hopes to insult and incite the United States into starting a war in Europe, a fugitive leader from the Soviet Zone of Germany said today.

Joseph Rambo, one-time official in the Christian Democratic Party in Soviet-occupied Saxony, said the Russians are convinced they can defeat the U.S. in a war if only they can goad the Americans into starting it.

"The Russians will not start the war," Rambo said. "The Russians have a different tactic. They intend to insult and incite until the opponent loses his temper and attacks."

Rambo, 52, was deputy mayor of Leipzig. He fled with his family to escape possible execution for failure to co-operate with the Communists.

He said there were "few" signs of war preparation in the Soviet zone and that fewer Soviet troops could be seen there now than six months ago.

Troops' Beer Called Treason

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—"It is almost treason to ration beer to soldiers at war when they need every bit of their brains and energy to fight," Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, said today.

She said delegates to the W.C.T.U. convention opening today probably would pass resolutions sponsoring the outlawing of any type of alcoholic beverages in the armed services.

The organization and "many people throughout the country, especially mothers" are alarmed at a bill introduced by Rep. John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) that beer be rationed to men in the service in the Far East, she said.

Acquitted

A dispatch from Luneburg, Germany, today said Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's economic minister and financial wizard, had been acquitted by a denazification court of charges that he had been a Nazi. Schacht's defence claimed he had participated in underground plots against Hitler.

Barring Of Red Suspects At T.L.C. Meeting Upheld

Noisy Convention Backs Leaders' Action In Giving Organization Benefit Of Doubt

MONTREAL (CP)—After a rousing convention-floor battle over the issue of Communism in unions, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today upheld its leadership's action in barring six Red suspects from the annual meeting.

At the end of a tumultuous scrap over the question, the convention backed up by about 30 to one the executive decision keeping out the six, who are among 20 banned originally by the convention's credentials committee.

The case of the other 13 did not crop up today because up to this point they had not sought formally to be admitted.

Those whose disbarment was upheld by the convention were: Mrs. Helen Weir, Toronto Hotel and Restaurant Workers; Reg. Wright, Toronto head of the Chemical Workers' Union; Jack Phillips and Donald Guise, Vancouver Civic Workers' Union; Sam Lapides of Toronto, National representative of the United Garment Workers of America, and Alex Gauld, Montreal plumber.

The hour-long debate over the alleged Reds was punctuated by boos, jeers and other interruptions as the overwhelmingly strong anti-Reds battled it out with the left-wing minority of about 25 delegates.

T.L.C. president Percy Bengough told the convention that in deciding on the banning of the six the executive merely was carrying out congress policy decided on last year.

He conceded it was difficult to prove persons were Communists, but where there was doubt, the committee had given the benefit to "our organization and not to any doubtful individual." Rallying to the defence of the banned group, Orville Braaten, Vancouver pulp and sulphite worker, who said the executive action had been brought on by "hysteria."

He said it means the T.L.C. was assuming "political control" over local unions who nominated delegates. Bengough's statement came in a reply to Braaten. As the convention's applause for its president.

Captured Red Korean Expecting To Be Shot Asks Allies For Rice

ON THE NORTHERN FRONT, KOREA (UP)—Lee Chang-song, 33, watched the other prisoners of war sitting in a circle on the ground eating rice with their hands.

Then, he tapped timidly on the shoulder of the interpreter. "He wants to know if he can have a handful of rice before we shoot him," the interpreter said. "He says he hasn't eaten in two days."

Lee, a private in a North Korean rifle company, was one of 73 prisoners in the makeshift compound. His clothes were filthy and the canvas tops of his tennis shoes were ragged and torn. His feet were blistered and bleeding.

We asked the interpreter how long Lee had been a Communist. "He says he's a farmer, not a Communist," was the reply.

"Then why is he in the People's Army?"

"He says he was drafted."

"Ask him what his officers told him would happen to him if he surrendered."

"They told him he would be shot if captured."

"Why does he expect to be shot?"

"He doesn't know," the interpreter replied. "He says everything is different than he had heard or expected. He says there's good food and good treatment."

"Ask him if his regiment has captured any Americans or South Koreans."

"He says no. They just went into action this week."

Where was his regiment trying to go?"

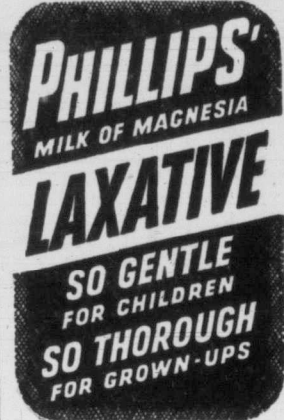

"Pohang airstrip."

"Why did he surrender?"

"His regiment was scattered by airplanes and the group he ran away with got lost and was surrounded."

"Ask him if the new men had guns when they went into action."

"No. Most of them had to wait until someone was killed or wounded before they could get weapons."

Going With An Open Mind

REPLYING TO THE QUESTIONS OF Opposition members in the Commons, Prime Minister St. Laurent stated yesterday that the Government is not at the moment considering the despatch of Canadian troops to Europe to serve "as a deterrent" to aggression. That is a decision with which most Canadians, although anxious for their country to play a full part in the great effort to preserve democratic freedom in the world, will for the present rest content.

There can be little doubt that a show of strength in Western Europe would do much to stabilize the situation, bolster a feeling of security among our allies in that area and engender some hesitancy in any power contemplating a westward march. The question becomes one of how best to effect it.

As Mr. St. Laurent has pointed out, the Dominion today is not well organized for the provision of large numbers of troops for foreign service. Enlistment of the Korean force has tapped a large proportion of the available recruits. Further sizeable levies must remove men from industry—a point the Prime Minister emphasized—and thereby detract from that phase of Canada's rearmament effort. The point was likewise made that this country could furnish much more strength in the form of arms and supplies for men already resident in Western Europe than it could provide in the form of expeditionary troops maintained at great expense. There is, too, the consideration that no land should seriously deplete its defensive strength at home in favor of extra-territorial duty.

These are all factors, of course, which can alter overnight with changes in the international situation. Mr. St. Laurent had that in mind when he made clear that Canada will go to this week's Atlantic Pact conference with a mind open to any proposals that may be advanced by her allies. In short, we are ready to do what may be necessary in view of developments in world affairs, but we are not to be stampeded into action which might quickly prove to be in the best interests of neither the Dominion nor those she wishes to help.

Bienvenue a M. Lagueux

IT IS UNFORTUNATE THAT MANY Canadians form their opinion of the ancient Province of Quebec from the strident outcries of such politicians as Poullet, Duplessis and Houde. More representative of the French-Canadian outlook is Arthur Lagueux, the amiable and broad-minded president of Rotary International from Quebec City, who spoke here yesterday.

In the course of an entertaining and convincing address, M. Lagueux told Rotarians of the freedom enjoyed by Canada's French-speaking minority under the Union Jack. Freedom of language, law and religion had contributed to the survival of their culture and establishment of the "French-Canadian fact." So distinguished an historian as Arnold Toynbee has predicted that this culture will outlive most others in this world.

M. Lagueux told how, down through the centuries, British fair play towards minorities had contributed to tolerance and understanding. The Durham Report and the B.N.A. Act are just two of the pillars upon which French-Canadian rights are based.

That English and French-speaking Canadians are moving closer together with the passing years cannot be denied. There is a gradual evolution towards co-operation on both sides. A recent sign was the recruiting campaign for the Korean volunteer force, in which some Quebec towns produced the highest per capita enlistments in Canada.

The Victoria Daily Times is particularly happy that it was able to send a French-speaking reporter to interview M. Lagueux, and that he found this gesture "courteous." For it remains a sad fact that, while 65 per cent of French-Canadians are perfectly bilingual, only four per cent of English-speaking Canadians can speak French.

It Is Worth A Trial

WHETHER CIVIC VOTERS CANNOT reach a single, central polling station on voting day, or whether they will not bother to make the effort, may be points in the current study by Victoria's legislative committee of the possibilities of establishing district polls. The plain fact, emphasized on the second Thursday of December in the last 10 years, is that, with the exception of 1949, more than half of the enfranchised citizens did not go to the Market Building.

That, in itself, might persuade the committee that more places to vote are needed. Suggestions that four stations be established scarcely meet the issue. They would not be conveniently enough situated to attract those who cannot, or will not, go to the central location.

It seems logical that the council should try to meet the convenience of the voters on this question. Should the committee recommend accordingly, the district polling stations are automatically established. Each locality has its school. The school is not too far distant from any home—no more distant than a child can go unattended. Give the people the right to vote in the schools, and they can have no excuse for neglecting their democratic responsibility to mark ballots. A small vote, under such circumstances, would specifically prove the root of the trouble to be civic apathy. Establishing only four polling stations would not be a fair test.

Introduction of the district system would be more expensive than that now followed. It would, nevertheless, be a justifiable expenditure of public funds, if it did no more than fix responsibility for the disgracefully small turn-outs that have been recorded in recent civic elections.

Red Deserters Try To Impress With Show Of 'Deep Thought'

By BRUCE BLOSSAT from New York

THIS thing of breaking with the Communist Party has become quite a production. The latest to give it the Cecil B. DeMille touch is Lee Pressman, former general counsel of the C.I.O. Pressman told the House un-American Activities Committee he belonged to a Communist Party cell in 1934, left the party after a year but maintained an "ideological link" until just a short time ago. The Red invasion of South Korea led him finally to sever this tie, which he did by resigning from the Communist-run American Labor Party Aug. 10.

Blossat

TOOK TIME

Rep. Richard M. Nixon, California Republican on the committee, asked Pressman, why it took him from June 25, the invasion date, to Aug. 10 to make up his mind. Replied Pressman:

"My decision was taken as result of profound conviction. I had discussed this for at least a year with some close friends. . . . It took time to reach a conclusion like this."

Now of course it's every individual's own business how and when he decides on the course his life should take. It's not for any other citizen to say how fast or how slow he should arrive at the crucial decisions.

But there's an implication in Pressman's remarks, and it's noticeable in the attitude of other Communist deserters, that a Communist or Red sympathizer gives somewhat deeper thought to these basic questions than other people do.

When a Red decides not to be a Red any more, it's always after the most exhaustive soul-searching. You get the idea he is reluctantly leaving a cause he suspects may still be noble despite disquieting evidence to the contrary. He acts like a man who is leaving a humanitarian organization because the treasurer was caught stealing money.

Actually these little personal dramas of people like Pressman are acted out to boost the self-importance of the actors. They seem to find it necessary to represent themselves as heavy thinkers bearing the great weight of the world's problems on their minds. No decision can be taken without consulting the mysterious oracle which guides their profound mental gyrations.

Could anything be more laughable?

At worst these people have purposely blinded themselves to the brutal truth about communism in practice—facts long established and constantly re-emphasized.

SAME THING

At best they are well meaning but misguided, deluded individuals who lack the power to understand that communism and tyranny are the same thing.

In neither instances is there anything profound about their grasp of the realities. Quite the reverse. These deserters from communism have been living in a realm of paper-thin dreams. Yet they want us to believe it requires a long painful exercise of high intellect to realize the transparency of their fantasy.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE Vancouver Sun, in common with many another Canadian paper, seems to have a down on the CBC. In June, the Sun ran an editorial against the CBC (and against old Brock, my hearties, calling me a limp-wristed CBC type unfit to be hired by public funds, etc., etc.). The general argument seemed to be that because a Sun editorial writer didn't like a five-minute section of my broadcast, the government had criminally squandered a fraction of his radio license fee. (His fee is $2.50 a year, or about two-thirds of a cent a day. Five minutes' worth would thus be about a two hundred and eighty-eighth of a cent. Robbery!)

This editorial was reprinted all across Canada, though the free publicity did me little good, because I was identified only as author of that broadcast and not mentioned by name. I believe the Montreal Gazette actually printed it twice; at any rate, the fuss went on for a long time, bless all simple hearts. There's an awful lot of newsprint to be filled every day, and it might as well be filled with mainly indignation against me as with anything else.

I NOW see the Gazette reprinting a Sun editorial against CBC television. Its general theme is that good Canadians would rather have no television at all than have CBC television. Since none of us listen to the CBC, none of us would look at the CBC either. And if the CBC thinks it puts on good shows, then what we want is bad shows. But there is a fallacy here. It has already been found in the U.S.A. that people will stare all day and night at television, no matter how good it is. True, most viewers and listeners would, like the Sun, rather have poor quality if there is any choice in the matter. But even high-class stuff won't put them off TV.

INCIDENTALLY, it is rather curious that the Sun is proud to hire Mr. Clyde Gilmour, who is deservedly famous for his regular CBC talks. One hopes the Sun doesn't forbid him to accept public funds for his CBC work. Nor is it likely that Mr. Gilmour is the only Sun employee or former employee who ever spoke words into vile microphones bearing the hellish inscription: "CBC." I can think of several myself, going all the way back to the late Dr. Sedgewick, who at one time had a column on the Sun, and who broadcast on CBC for years and years.

UNASSUMING MENTION of Dr. Sedgewick's Sun column brings back a memory of our rudeness as undergraduates at U.B.C. During the performance of some student show or other, we sang this lyric, to the tune of "Turkish Delight":

Doc Sedgewick writes a column; it is called "More Light Than Heat." The Daily Sun assures us it's an intellectual treat.

We haven't got an intellect, and so we read it not. But we admire its modest title meaning "Not So Hot."

Doc, bless his old ghost, didn't mind this. In fact, he enjoyed more than anyone the ironic suggestion that he of all men could ever be modest. Modesty was one bit of luggage with which he refused to impede himself.

FORMAL RECEIPT ONE OF MY daughters, aged nearly seven, was off to a birthday party last week, and her mother said "Now, look here, Phoebe, when you leave the party, don't say 'Thank you for the ice cream' or 'Thank you for the cake' or anything like that. Thank her for nothing mentioned by itself like that; just sounds rude. Thank her, that's all. Just thank her. Say 'Thank you very much.' Understand? Now let's see you try it." Phoebe stuck out her hand and said "Thank you for nothing."

KIND WORDS ON SPINACH I WAS asked, after saying harsh things about spinach in a song here the other day, if I would not say something kindly about spinach too. Ever happy to oblige, I will. Many doctors now think spinach may be rather rough on the gastro-intestinal tract if over-indulged in. And anything that's bad for you is bound to be mighty nice, you've got to look at that. Another nice thing about spinach is that it forms the base or an essential ingredient of dozens and dozens of perfectly divine French and Italian dishes. But what good will that do you if your wife can't or won't make them?

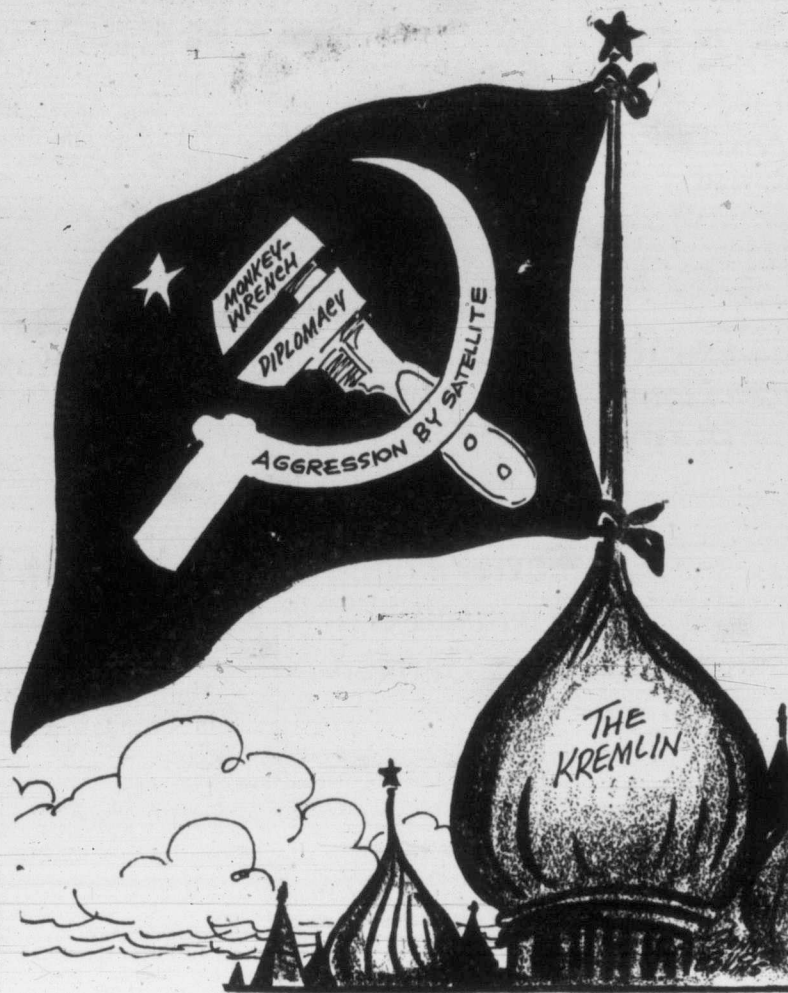

I am told (I don't know on what good authority) that spinach contains too much oxalic acid, which not only makes its own calcium useless to you but robs you of other calcium in your body. I wouldn't know about oxalic acid. But I know that equal parts of cooked spinach and Yorkshire pudding batter, cooked as Yorkshire pudding or in deep tart moulds, makes a mighty nice dish to go with roast ox, calcium or not, oxalic or not.

THE STRAIGHT GOODS

LIVING as I do next door to a house that is being built, I hear very stimulating discussions at the lunch-hour. Today two carpenters sat just on the other side of my hedge, and one asked why the British Labor Party lost votes in the last election, and the other said "Because Franco and the Pope financed the Tories." "Why would Franco and the Pope want to do that?" "Because they've got lots of money."

Politics makes strange bedfellows. Uncle Sam is now chumming around with Franco and loaning the old boy money.

New Red Flag

As Our Readers See It

TWO SIDES TO IT

I have much enjoyed your series of articles on the parking problem in this city. One of the main points raised was the amount of space taken up by bus stops, but I don't quite see why that is a major factor. When the need is for a thousand or more parking places, the addition of a couple of dozen by abolishing a bus stop or two wouldn't make much difference. And when you think that when filled those bus areas may hold several hundred passengers, compared with the handful of car users that could be accommodated, it looks like Victorians who don't own automobiles might be entitled to a little use of their roadways, too.

PEDESTRIAN.

SEEDS OF FAITH

In answer to Mr. Eekman: It does seem in these days when the hospitals and institutions are so full of people needing even a shred of faith to keep them going, that no matter what our personal doubts are we should at least keep them under our hat. What with sickness, accidents, disease, troubles mental, financial and spiritual, we need every seed and grain of faith we can muster.

Most people believe in Christ's heaven. Most believe their dear ones are there and if they doubt they say a prayer for them. If our own relations are there, why, in common sense, aren't the saints? And wasn't the blessed Virgin Mary the most Godly woman of all creation to be chosen to bear God's only begotten Son? If the saints prayed for people while on earth, why not now while in heaven. J. E. JARVIS.

CLARIFIES RESOLUTIONS

During the past few days there has appeared in the local press certain information regarding the resolutions passed at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' convention in Winnipeg. Unfortunately this data was incorrect and it is essential the facts should be published to avoid criticism. The error was made in Winnipeg therefore there is no blame on B.C. papers. The important resolutions were as follows, viz:

1. That the basic rate of pension be increased to $125 per month ($31 increase not $40 as published).
2. That War Veterans' Allowance be increased from $40 single men and $70 married men to $50 single men and $100 married men.
3. That the government be requested to re-establish price controls on all staple commodities and rentals.

5. To reappoint a permanent standing committee on veterans' affairs.

6. That the government amend the military service act so that all men between ages of 18 and 21 years be required to serve three years basic training in the reserve forces of Canada.

ENEMIES IN OUR MIDST

Very recently the harried government of France sent packing to Poland, Russia and other points behind the iron curtain a sizeable batch of Communists who, faithful to creed and custom, were active in planning the overthrow of that government. Thus France's courageous initiative has set an excellent example to Canada and all other countries that are scourged with this destructive menace.

One would think that we, already deeply scarred with their abominable tactics, would take proper safeguards, but it is more than a little mystifying when leaders like Dr. Endicott and Tim Buck are permitted to strut about at will preaching their reasonable doctrines and subverting the people. Their stripe insolently demand the best but give their venomous worst in fomenting social and industrial strife, as witness the many paralyzing strikes. This is tolerance gone mad. No objective is too small—none too big. Their scope of wrecking operations ranges from the humble family circle to national government and ultimately world domination. This is their open boast.

As a family proposition would you, reader, knowingly harbor the villain bent on the destruction of your home? Not on your life you wouldn't. Would the Communists welcome this kind of treatment to themselves? Not they.

When the country is threatened with an epidemic we invoke the aid of science and every expedient to squelch it. Then why in the name of common sense is this plague in human form permitted to flourish? And especially now that we are at war when the need for drastic safeguards is a pressing necessity surely it is not unreasonable to propose that anyone whose allegiance to a foreign power takes precedence over that of the country affording them the same rights and privileges as the best citizens enjoy should be deported or at least deprived of citizenship: in an ecclesiastic sense to suffer the strictures of excommunication, for apparently they do not possess one redeeming feature as desirable citizens.

The Driver And His Conscience

From The New York Times

BACK a little, a correspondent to this newspaper came up with an idea for the improvement of safety in driving. Observing that one frequently heard such a line as "My tennis game isn't so hot," he seldom heard "My driving wasn't so good today," he advocated an increased pride in roadmanship, based on an honest self-appraisal, each man for himself.

He had more than a point there. Away from his car, the average motorist will concede willingly that he is a pretty poor thing, made up of frailties, dubious judgments and bad second guesses. He is rueful about all of these things, but he concedes them, along with the inference that tomorrow will be another day, and perhaps that day will be better.

But at the wheel of his car—no. The average motorist is the master of that mass of steel and chromium, and it is hard for him to admit wrong. He even has a slogan to prove his complete innocence in advance—"It's the other fellow."

NOT HONEST

That, of course, is an alibi and is not honest searching of the soul; and, as the correspondent pointed out, a little soul-searching not only here but on the part of the other fellow would improve the breed. Not to mention improving the statistics of major and minor accidents.

I do think it is the height of immorality to call young men . . . send them off to war from which they may never come back . . . and to leave others to profit and profiteer. Bernard Baruch, World War I mobilization director.

Associated Press News Analyst

THE biggest current news of the Korean war is the fighting talk given United Nations forces yesterday by Lt. Gen. Walton Walker, Allied ground commander, in which he forecast a U.N. offensive soon.

The general added the optimistic prediction that "as soon as we start forward and break the crust in front of us, the enemy will fold. We can feel a weakening of the enemy now . . . in some positions they actually are pulling out."

This comes as a welcome surprise, because it's only 10 days ago that the Allied forces were facing a desperate situation as the result of a powerful Red offensive on the east coast in the corridor leading to the vital supply port of Pusan.

The enemy made a massive breakthrough—and there seemed to be nothing to prevent him from exploiting it. Why he didn't still is an unsolved mystery.

Since then the Allied forces have made an astonishing recovery. In a successful counter-offensive they have largely restored their positions. The situation is good enough for Gen. Walker to talk confidently of a coming Allied drive.

BATTLE PUNCH

Naturally the general gave no details. However, we are entitled to assume that movement of troops and equipment from the United States and Allied countries has been accumulating strength for U.N. Commander-in-chief MacArthur.

General Walker's "pep talk" to the troops presumably reflects something of this sort. However, we probably shall be wise to reflect that it was a "pep talk" and not let our imaginations carry us beyond what he actually said.

In sizing up the situation it must be remembered that hundreds of thousands of seasoned and well-equipped Chinese and Manchurian troops are reported available to reinforce the North Koreans if necessary. Indeed, the indications are that a virtually inexhaustible stream of Communist forces could be kept coming down through the North Korean funnel against MacArthur's men.

Whether this will happen presumably depends on Moscow's decision. Such a development could produce another general conflict, and it is safe to assume that Russia will be chary on that account. She doesn't want another world war—not now, anyway.

RED STRATEGY

However, it is probable the Korean War could be greatly protracted—without precipitating a major conflict—by providing steady though limited reinforcements for the North Koreans. That would suit the Soviet strategy of keeping the United States and her Allies engaged in as many costly adventures as possible, so to weaken their economic structures.

This is speculation which only time can answer. Meanwhile, although we can feel satisfaction in the current news from Korea, I think we shall be wise to gird ourselves for a good deal more fierce fighting.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"THE old question," said the Elevator Man, "asks 'what's in a name?' and the answer is, 'plenty.' Our first impressions of a man are gained from his name. Who would you pick to be wrecked on a desert island with, Jack Dautless or Elmer Snide? Would you take out a mortgage with a man named Scrooge? Do you think it would be a handicap for a law firm to be named G r a b b e m, C h e e t h a m a n d S k i p p e ? It just shows you how important a handle is.

Manufacturers spend millions figuring out a good name for their products, yet human beings take what they're given, or what they inherit, without a murmur. Of course, occasionally somebody named Poppinsndl applies to have it changed to Smith. But probably where he came from people apply to have Smith changed to Poppinsndl. Going down!

"I see," said the Elevator Man, "where the town of Saint Julien in France has been having a battle over the name of its stadium. It seems the town council is Communist inclined and wants the stadium to be called after Maurice Thorez, the Red French leader. But every night somebody steals the sign off the place. So they've compromised. The sign will be hung up every morning and taken down every night. That shows a nice acceptance of life's difficulties, even if the boys are off the beam politically. But it could get mighty confusing. It's not a custom you'd want to have going on everywhere. If Stalin Street became Truman Avenue again as soon as the sun went down, it could be pretty tough on the post office. Lower main!

"I also see," said the Elevator Man, "where MacArthur's headquarters have complained about American troops calling North Koreans 'gooks.' They're afraid the South Korean allies will be offended by hearing the term so much. Case where too many 'gooks' spoil the brotherhood?"

Poor Pollination If Sprinkling Overhead

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Two gardeners have reported poor pollination of corn, and in both instances overhead sprinkling had been used when the pollen was ripe.

If water is needed during this period, it should be applied directly to the roots, leaving the pollen dry to be freely scattered over the tassels by the wind. Better pollination is also secured when corn is planted in a square instead of a long row because there are sure to be some tassels to catch the pollen, no matter which way the wind is blowing.

A reader asks what causes scab on potatoes. Soil conditions are the most common cause. Recently-applied manure will result in scab and lime will have the same effect. Ashes from refuse fires is another cause. On one of my lots an area had been used for burning rubbish and after five years of cultivation, potatoes planted in this section still showed scab.

It is mainly the appearance of the tubers which is affected, and soaking the seed before cutting in corrosive sublimate, 1 to 1,000, for one and a half hours, is said to be a control. Being a deadly poison, great care must be exercised if this remedy is attempted. The use of sulphate of ammonia as a source of nitrogen in feeding the crop will tend to keep the soil on the acid side, which is beneficial.

Another reader would like to know when gladiolus corms should be dug. In this area, Oct. 1 is considered about the correct time, although much will depend on the planting date. The tops should be cut off immediately the corms are dug, otherwise energy will be wasted by the plant in an effort to keep the tops green. Dig in the morning and leave the corms on the soil to dry until evening. Tops should be burned as soon as possible to destroy thrips.

Full instructions for digging and storing gladiolus corms will be given in this column towards the end of September.

Death Verdict For Shooting Of Constable

MONTREAL (CP)—Thomas Rossier was convicted Wednesday of the murder of R.C.M.P. Constable Alex. Gammann and sentenced to be hanged Dec. 15.

The jury deliberated 18 minutes, bringing the trial to an end late in its second day. Rossier, Montana bad man with a long criminal record in western Canada and the United States, took the verdict and death sentence without emotion.

Rossier testified Wednesday in his own defence. He said he was "pretty high" the day the constable was shot down in the street.

He related details of the abortive bank hold-up in mid-town Montreal last May 25. He said the gun discharged when the constable lunged at him, and that the gun was carried only as a means of intimidation.

Rossier said he did not realize he himself was wounded until he had gone more than a block in his flight. He told of his movements from Montreal to Calgary and to Scooby, Montana. He was arrested in Montana a few miles south of the Saskatchewan boundary.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police were organized in 1873 to preserve law and order in the still unsettled western provinces.

Mounting Butter Supply Above 33,534,960 Pounds

OTTAWA (CP)—Once again Canada's warehouses are being filled with heavy stocks of government butter.

Though the support price has been lowered, the flow of surplus creamery butter into government hands is being maintained almost at last year's level.

The government disclosed in a return tabled in the Commons Wednesday for John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre, Sask.) that it now owns 33,534,961 pounds of butter, purchased from Canadian producers in the 1950 production season, which opened in May.

At current support prices, that means the government has shelled out more than $17,000,000 so far this season in an effort to support the butter market.

An official estimated that the current purchases are just slightly below the purchase level last year when the government ended up with supplies of almost 50,000,000 pounds, costing it $29,000,000.

So much difficulty did the government encounter in its disposal program, that in July it still had almost 10,000,000 pounds of 1949 stocks to offer.

This it finally disposed of at a price which brought it a return of a little more than 50 cents a pound, resulting in a total loss of well over $2,000,000 on its 1949 support program.

How it will fare in its 1950 program is yet to be seen. In an attempt to get out on the black side of the ledger this year, the government lowered the support price from last year's 58 cents to 53.

New Oil Line In Operation Soon

EDMONTON (CP)—The $95,000,000 Interprovincial pipeline connecting Edmonton and Superior, Wis., will begin carrying oil from Edmonton to Regina within a few weeks, officials of the company laying the pipeline said Wednesday.

A big belt-type ditching machine scooped the last square yard of earth out of the trench connecting Edmonton and Regina. The section from Regina to Gretna, Man., has less than 10 miles left to ditch while the section from Gretna to Superior, still has about 100 miles.

Commons Told Arms Canada's Best Aid To Defence Of Western Europe Democracies

OTTAWA (CP)—The government feels Canada's best contribution to the defence of peace-time Europe is arms, rather than manpower—"at this time."

That point was made clear in the Commons Wednesday by Prime Minister St. Laurent shortly before External Affairs Minister Pearson left for New York as Canada's spokesman at a vital meeting of the Atlantic Pact Foreign Ministers on the defence of Europe.

After John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre, Sask.) had raised Winston Churchill's call for two or three Canadian divisions in Europe, Mr. St. Laurent entered the budget debate to make these points:

1. The government "at this time is not considering the raising of Canadian forces to dispatch to Europe . . . and has not before it any such suggestion from any of the pact governments."

2. Those 11 Allied governments are not apt to suggest the best value to be obtained from Canada's contribution would be by sending men to Europe and maintaining them rather than using them here to help produce arms and equipment for Europe's surplus but unequipped manpower.

3. Mr. Churchill is Britain's leader of the Opposition and leaders of the Opposition don't lay down the pact powers' defence policies—their governments do.

4. Canada's $300,000,000 arms-for-Europe program will do more for the over-all defence of Europe than if that money was spent to raise an overseas Canadian contingent which would have to be drawn from the men now engaged in productive pursuits.

But there were qualifications to Mr. St. Laurent's statement. He said Canada had not been asked for troops and was not at this time considering such a move. Washington reports have indicated a U.S. request for a Canadian division for Europe might be made this week-end.

Mr. St. Laurent said arms are Canada's most effective "immediate" contribution. He said Mr. Pearson was going to New York with an open mind and that the government would consider any proposal. The policy he enunciated was the policy "at this time."

In the Prime Minister's wake came George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who charged the government had refused to take Opposition members into its confidence on defence although Mr. St. Laurent himself had praised their spirit of co-operation.

He renewed his call for a secret sitting so members could be taken into the government's confidence and so all members could go into the country as a team to urge the people to get behind the defence effort.

As Mr. Pearson listened, Mr. Diefenbaker brought the issue into focus by quoting Mr. Churchill and reports from Washington, and saying members deserved a statement on the government's attitude.

Burns Club Opens Season

Burns' Club featured reading of poems and Scottish songs at its first meeting of the season Tuesday night at Prince Robert House with the new president, A. Allnut, in the chair.

Piper Donald Graham opened the meeting, and was followed on the program by Harry Wood, secretary, who read a Burns' poem, and vocal soloists Mrs. Mary Campbell, Mrs. Shepherd and T. J. Bell. Accompanist was Mrs. R. C. James.

Featured speaker was Duncan MacBride, who told how clubs of this kind could contribute to and support the four freedoms. He was thanked by Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, retiring president.

Increase Patrol On Island Highway

The stretch of Island Highway from Craigflower corner to the west end of Langford Lake is being more closely patrolled by officers of the R.C.M.P.

An inspector of the mounted police said today that the patrol has been increased from one to four men in order to keep a closer check on the motoring public over the winding, hilly highway stretch.

Traffic officials of the force, he said, soon realized that one man doing long duty was inadequate to patrol that long stretch of road and increased the patrol in the middle of August. Over the years accidents have been numerous from Victoria to Langford.

Cross-Floor Spats Staged In Commons

Drew's Defence Of Kamloops Member's Korea Views Attacked

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, on the eve of adjournment, packed more action into its sitting Wednesday than into almost any other meeting since the special emergency opened Aug. 29.

Angry, cross-floor verbal spats erupted, first in a discussion on the role Canada should play in the defence of Europe and then again when George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, rose to the defence of one of his supporters.

The developments came as members defeated two opposition motions of non-confidence in the government, concluded the debate on the budget and began study of legislation that will give legal effect to the tax changes in last Thursday's budget.

The legislation is the last major item of business on the agenda. When the work is completed, Parliament will adjourn, instead of prorogue, until Feb. 14, subject to recall if developments warrant such action.

Progressive Leader Drew was the centre of a verbal battle when he rose to defend E. D. Fulton (P.C., Kamloops) over his don't-enlist-for-Korea statement.

The leader told the House he didn't agree with Maj. Fulton's advice to Canadians not to enlist in the army's special force until the government has imposed conscription.

He did, however, intend to reply to an attack on Mr. Fulton by Sqn. Ldr. James Sinclair, Parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister, Abbott. He said "It comes with very bad grace for anyone who has not seen combat service to reflect on the loyalty of a man who had seen plenty of service as an infantry officer in Italy and western Europe."

(Sqn. Ldr. Sinclair was adjutant of an R.C.A.F. squadron in England and Africa.)

HOUSE MENTIONED

Sqn. Ldr. Sinclair had referred to Maj. Fulton as an isolationist and had said his statements were parallel to wartime statements that led one Canadian—Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal—to be sent to an internment camp.

In that other case, said Mr. Drew, the government had alleged a law was broken. In this case, whether one agreed with Maj. Fulton or not, no law had been broken. In that other case, the government had said the war effort was being hindered. Here Maj. Fulton was seeking a greater military effort.

J. L. Gibson (Ind., Comox-Alberni) and George Cruikshank (L., Fraser Valley) called for withdrawal of Mr. Drew's remark that Sqn. Ldr. Sinclair had not seen combat service. Mr. Drew declined to withdraw.

MOTIONS DEFEATED

In calmer moments, members voted 152 to 56 against a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government. A similar C.C.F. motion was defeated 147 to 53.

Both motions were moved Tuesday as a means of showing the opposition's dissatisfaction with the special emergency-session budget brought down to help finance Canadian participation in the Korean war, an accelerated defence program at home and arms aid to Europe.

Victoria United Sign English Soccer Star

William Peter Grant, centre forward just out from Liverpool, fills in the signature that yesterday made him a Victoria United soccer player. Seated beside Grant is club director George Ede, and looking down from the right is Harry Young, club president. Grant, who has played for Burnley, Llandudno and Glentoran in the Old Country, made an impressive tryout this week. He plays either centre forward or inside right.

Roger Leger Canadiens' Choice As Coach Of Victoria Cougars

Although president Lester Patrick has not yet interviewed the player it seems that Montreal Canadiens have already decided that 31-year-old defenceman Roger Leger will be the new coach of the Victoria Cougars in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

According to a Canadian Press report from Montreal the French-Canadian star, who boasts plenty of National Hockey League experience, will head west to take over the job held last season by Eddie Wares.

When questioned today business manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cougars blamed the premature announcement on the publicity department of the Canadiens. "Leger is the man the Canadiens recommended but Lester has not talked to him yet and we don't know if he will come to terms. The interview is slated for Sunday in Montreal and a definite statement will be issued following that session."

HAS GOOD RECORD

Leger spent last season with the Canadiens and saw action in the Stanley Cup playdowns. He turned pro with the New York Rangers in the 1943-44 season but spent most of the season with the Buffalo club in the American Hockey League.

For the next three seasons Leger was with Buffalo and rapidly developed into a scoring threat.

CITY SOCCER LEAGUE TO OPEN SATURDAY

The Victoria and District Football League opens its 1950-51 season this Saturday with four of the seven league squads seeing action in a doubleheader at Athletic Park.

Britannias will tangle with Oak Bay in the season's curtain raiser at 2, with Esquimalt clashing with Aicos in the second game immediately following the first. Britannia are last year's Canadian Legion.

On Sunday Victoria West will meet Heaney's at grounds to be announced later.

Duncan is the seventh member of the league.

Arthur King In Win Over Mell

TORONTO (CP)—One-time kinky-haired kid who fought preliminary bouts at Toronto's Massey Hall came back home last night.

Lit Arthur King, the local boy who made good, wasn't the same windmill-swinging youngster as he outpointed Gus (Pell) Mell of Montreal at Maple Leaf Gardens. The tutelage of Blinky Palermo of Philadelphia, which shot him to the top of the lightweight division, has left its mark.

Alibis Dime A Dozen Among Managers Of Pennant Contenders In Major Ball

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UP)—It's bound to be a "wet world series" judging from the heavy volume of mud, sweat and tears.

Everyone in baseball is crying—from first place right on down to the cellar.

Pennant contenders are spewing crocodile tears because of recent rains that play hob with the schedule and havoc with their series' chances. Second Division clubs wail about the opportunities they muffed to crash the upper brackets.

The baseball crying towel is in evidence everywhere. Take Leo Durocher, who should be doubled up in glee at the upward surge of his New York Giants.

"If Bobby Thomson would have come through for us," moans the lachrymose Lip, "we would have given them a real battle for the flag."

Casey Stengel, whose New York Yankees are back in second place, sounds like his cup of sorrow runneth over, too.

"With Gene Woodling out," he says dolefully, "it hurts our chances a lot. My pitching staff is tired, also. The guy on first base (Johnny Mize) could use a rest, too."

Stengel blithely overlooks the fact that he has discovered a new front-line pitcher in Eddie Ford and an adequate, if not spectacular, outfield replacement in young, eager Jackie Jensen.

Eddie Sawyer of the Phillies should be laughing boy himself, particularly with a nice-to-look-at six-and-a-half-game lead. But is he turning handsprings? Not a chance.

Instead, he is concerned with preventing that only natural let-up feeling among his players and with a way to make up the loss of his smooth-working southpaw Curt Simmons.

For a time, Red Rolfe of the Detroit Tigers stemmed the tears. He used to say, "We always manage to win the big one."

ONLY HUMAN

Bupt when his Bengais dropped a few big ones, Rolfe showed he was only human. He talked about how sorely Virgil Trucks and Ted Gray were being missed.

After four straight pastings by the oft-battered Browns, the Cleveland Indians can throw in their crying towel. Now eight and a half games from the top, the Indians are in a strategic spot

Popham Only Rock Shelved For Final

Coach Arnold Ferguson of the Shamrocks counted noses today as he and his Rocks prepared for another joust in their current Intercity Lacrosse League post-season activities and found only Edwin Popham missing from Friday night's opener against the New Westminster Adanacs in the league finals.

Popham suffered torn ligaments in his right shoulder shortly after the start of Tuesday night's game against the Indians. He will likely miss the entire Adanac series.

Either Larry Booth or Andy Ovcharick will replace the high-scoring prize rookie, with Ovcharick as the probable choice. Booth, who was injured in the final game of the regular season against the yellowjackets at New Westminster, is still on the shelf and his status will not be determined until after a visit to the club doctor today.

If Ovcharick is named, Steve Rynoski will take over Popham's spot on the first-string line with the club president acting as utility man.

OTHERS BRUISED

A number of the other players are nursing nothing worse than painful bruises.

The latest series schedule as announced in a Canadian Press dispatch from Vancouver has the second and fourth games slated for the Memorial Arena on Monday and Friday of next week, with the third game at Vancouver Forum, Wednesday.

According to the report all Adanacs home games, with the exception of the series opener tomorrow night at Queens Park, will take place at the Forum. Tickets which were at a premium for the home games in the Indians series, will go on sale at the arena Friday morning at 7.

Britain Has New Jockey Wizard In Young Piggott

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Britain's youngest jockey, 14-year-old Lester Piggott, was born to the saddle.

His father and grandfather were jockeys and his mother twice won the only British race open to women riders.

"There was no question of him ever being anything, else but a jockey," Piggott Sr. says of the 84-pound teen-age star who rides successfully against established veterans such as 45-year-old Gordon Richards and 42-year-old Charlie Smirke.

Lester won his first race at 12 years of age and came home a winner on The Case, a 10-to-1 shot. In the two years since then he's ridden more than 25 winners, although because of his light weight he often draws horses that have little chance on form.

Because he is so light, he sometimes puts up as much as 28 pounds of "dead" weight on horses slated to carry 112 pounds, which is about the average on British tracks.

A rider's life is a hard one, but most schoolboys envy Piggott because he doesn't go to school. Instead, he takes private lessons at home.

He also studies form charts. His father says he knows pretty well what chance his horse has in every race by studying its form and breeding.

ENFORCED "REST" Amateur jockey Edward Underdown has been "warned off" the course for three months—but there's no stain on his record.

Besides being a race rider, Underdown also is a successful movie actor. When he signed a contract to play in the picture, "Man Detained," he had to accept a clause saying he wouldn't ride for three months.

An insurance company insisted on the provision. It was afraid a fall might hold up production.

One of Britain's best-known owners, Dorothy Paget, is at odds with another trainer, Henri Jelliss, Newmarket trainer and jockey, has asked her to find a new man to look after the 12 horses he trained for her.

"I find it quite hopeless to go on with the 12 horses I have, so I have decided to finish," Jelliss told reporters. Miss Paget declined comment.

Jelliss became chief trainer for Miss Paget in 1947 after Walter Nightfall decided to sever connection with the stable. Her jumping horses are trained by Fulke Walwyn.

Next to the Aga Khan, Miss Paget is perhaps the country's most successful owner. She is particularly well known for her frequent coups with Irish two-year-olds in cheap selling races.

McNamee Breaks Swimming Mark

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian amateur swimming record for the half-mile was smashed Wednesday night by Jerry McNamee of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club.

His time was 10:57.5, 11.3 seconds faster than the previous record, held by Jim Portlance of Ocean Falls, B.C.

Yankees-Detroit In Clutch Battle

Three-Game Series May Decide Pennant Chase

Two World Series veterans, Hal Newhouser and Vic Raschi, are on the firing line today as the league-leading Detroit Tigers and the runner-up New York Yankees clash in the opener of their three-game series at Detroit's Briggs Stadium.

While the Yanks and Tigers go at each other, the surging Boston Red Sox clash with the seventh-place Browns at St. Louis.

Newhouser, who has contributed 14 victories to the Tigers' scant half-game lead, has beaten the Yanks only once and lost to them three times.

Raschi, who will be seeking his sixth straight and 20th victory of the season, has split four decisions with the Bengals.

Boston has won eight straight games in St. Louis thus far, but the Browns of late have been flexing their muscles. The Tigers are riding the crest of a seven-game winning streak that includes four triumphs over Cleveland.

Detroit and New York tuned up for their important meeting with victories yesterday. The Tigers stopped Washington Senators 6 to 1 while the Yanks smeared Cleveland Indians 10 to 3. The Red Sox were not scheduled.

16TH VICTORY

Fred Hutchinson, with help in the eighth from Ted Gray, gained his 16th victory for the Tigers.

Three Cleveland errors, along with some lusty hitting by Yogi Berra, allowed the Yanks to breeze to victory in Cleveland. Berra rapped out his 22nd homer, two singles, drove in two runs and scored four. The miscues helped the Yanks to score six of their runs.

Ed Lopat received credit for his 17th victory. Bob Lemon opened for Cleveland and suffered his 11th defeat against 20 victories.

A Luke Easter of the Indians, who won Tuesday night's game with a ninth-inning homer, poled a terrific 463-foot blast off Lopat in the sixth for his 25th of the season.

The Browns edged Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 4 on Ken Woods' ninth-inning homer. The Browns' seven-game winning streak is their longest since they won the pennant in 1944.

STREAK ENDS

The big news in the National League was the end of New York Giant right-hander Sal Maglie's consecutive scoreless inning streak at 45. The skein came to an end as the Giants beat Pittsburgh Pirates 3 to 1. The game was called after seven innings because of rain and the scheduled second game also was rained out.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

There's one fair-weather lacrosse fan in the city who more than ever is a firm believer in the fabled good luck attached to the four-leaf clover. Before the departure of the Shamrocks Tuesday afternoon for Vancouver for that never-to-be-forgotten final engagement with the Indians, this rabid supporter supplied each member of the club with a four-leaf clover along with instructions to either swallow it or place it in their gloves or shoes. An extra large specimen was turned over to playing coach Arnold Ferguson for added luck. Just to make sure there was an extra dose of "Irish Luck" present in the Forum a goodly number of the Sideliners' Club were also provided with the lucky emblems.

When the spine-tingling game was finally decided the little lady cracked at the writer: "Didn't I tell you those four-leaves would pull them through." With that she opened her hand to disclose a limp bit of green.

Were Entitled To Victory

There was no happier person in the city Wednesday than coach Ferguson.

"Guess you are pretty proud of your boys?" I asked. "You can say that again," was his reply.

When questioned about the gruelling battle, Ferguson paid tribute to the Indians as well as his own club.

"It was one of those games that could have gone either way. However, I think we were entitled to the win as on two occasions earlier it looked like we were in."

"I was kind of sorry to see the final goal come as it did. Denny Huddleston played a terrific game for the Indians and it was unfortunate that he should give up the ball for what proved to be the winning goal. I understand he was in tears in the dressing-room. On the other hand you can imagine how Norm Coates felt when his pass was intercepted for that tying Indians' goal with five seconds remaining. You know that game was just packed with drama."

Ferguson also had a word of praise for the performance turned in by Bill Dickinson, veteran coach of the Indians. "He was terrific and nearly pulled his club through on sheer courage. He has always been a great player and in the final Bill played an awful lot of lacrosse."

Fergy Refuses To Go On Limb

Never one to put himself out on a limb, Ferguson was loath to predict the outcome of the finals against the New Westminster Adanacs. In six games during the regular league schedule the clubs broke even. "They play a different style than Indians but are going to be every bit as tough to beat," he admitted. "Those scores Adanacs piled up against Burrards in the semifinals are a fair indication the club has hit its peak."

Popham's Loss Serious Blow

Injury suffered by Ed Popham, sharpshooting rookie centre of the first string line, is a serious blow to the Shamrocks. His absence from the line-up will mean a reshuffle of the front-liners and it is too much to expect that his replacement will prove as effective. As Fergy pointed out: "It's going to take some serious thinking to figure out the best switch and the most serious feature is that our odd man play is going to have to be revamped."

Sir Strome In Eight Lengths Derby Victory

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sir Strome, Toronto-owned entry, Wednesday won the 21st running of the Canadian Derby here.

The three-year-old chestnut, from Joe Holbeck's Double Blue Stable, won the $5,000 western Canada race classic by eight lengths.

Sir J.R., owned by Dr. E. G. Kemp of Vancouver, was second. Storm Bell, owned by F. M. (Tiny) Holden of Midnapore, Alta., was third.

The race was marked by a spill. Onwath, owned by E. H. Myers of Rosetown, Sask., and one of the leading contenders for the biggest purse in western Canada racing, fell in front of the Polo Park grandstand on the first round. Jockey Tony Licata was taken to hospital. Onwath was leading the five-horse field at the time. Storm Bell was forced to sidestep the fallen horse.

Time for the 1 1/4-mile run over a muddy track was 2:24 1/5, far short of the best time for the derby distance set in 1947 when Sir Berril romped in 2:07. Sir Strome, the favorite, paid $3.05, $2.60 and $2.10.

St. Kitts Take Junior Boxla Crown Back East

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's two-year reign as stronghold of junior lacrosse was snapped last night by a fighting bunch of youngsters from St. Catharines, Ont.

St. Catharines' All-Stars, a team well-named, took the Dominion junior lacrosse championship and the Minto Cup in three straight games from Vancouver Burrard juniors.

Score of the game that ended it all was 17 to 8. The final followed the pattern of the two previous frays, with the invading easterners supreme in speed and strategy.

Even the scores were similar and the outcome was not unexpected. The visitors established themselves as favorites Saturday night by taking the first game 18 to 9. Then they consolidated their gains Monday night with

LaMotta Winner In Last Minute

Kayoes Dauthuille To Retain Boxing Title

DETROIT (UP) — Jake LaMotta still wore the middle-weight crown today because of a "ring miracle" in which he saved himself from certain defeat by knocking out Laurent Dauthuille of France with only 13 seconds remaining in their scheduled 15-round bout.

Because of Dauthuille's near-victory before 11,424 fans at Olympia Arena last night, the curly-haired French auto mechanic may get another shot at LaMotta's crown before Jake is forced to defend against Ray (Sugar) Robinson at Chicago in February.

When the blood-smeared maulers started the 15th round, challenger Dauthuille was leading in points on the score sheets of the three ring officials. He was ahead by a total of 219 points to 201. And Dauthuille was leading until midway in the 15th when LaMotta stunned him with a left hook to the head. Then the New York champion bombarded the Frenchman with smashing hooks to the head until a left hook knocked Laurent backwards into the ropes and down onto the canvas.

Referee Lou Handler counted out Dauthuille at 2:47 of the 15th round just as the game Parisian scrapper tried to rise from one knee but fell back for a fatal second.

The United Press score card at the end of the 14th round favored Dauthuille, on a round by round basis, eight rounds to LaMotta's four. Two were even.

FIRST KNOCKOUT

There were no other knockdowns in the fight before Dauthuille went to the floor and suffered the first knockout in his career of 46 professional fights. It was a bitter defeat for Laurent, who had won a non-title bout with LaMotta at Montreal in February, 1945. The

Defence Urged For Standards Of Life Here

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Robert A. Tate of Regina suggested here that Canadians should be jolted "out of their smug complacency and made to realize that the extremely high standard of living enjoyed by them, partly as the result of war emergencies past and present, is not theirs by divine right."

Addressing a luncheon of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, he said:

"In my opinion, Canadian labor and capital are slowly but surely strangling the goose that has been laying the golden eggs."

"I admit wages are at an all-time high level. I admit hours of production are out of all proportion to the wages paid. I admit higher wages and lower production do not add up to sound economy."

"But I am forced to admit that neither does exploiting John Public by insisting on exorbitant returns on invested capital add up to sound economy."

"It ill behooves capital to adopt an attitude of injured self-righteousness; it ill behooves labor leaders to adopt an attitude of belligerent aggressiveness."

Home Wreckers

Three Pacific Gas and Electric Company trouble-shooters examine eagle's nest (left) atop 150-foot power line on the brink of an upper Sacramento River gorge in northern California near Redding. The six-foot nest, an intricate lacework of twigs and mud plastered interior, presented a double hazard. It could catch fire and drop on the forested area below, or the eagle's wingspread could easily short-circuit the 110,000-volt circuit. In photo at right, the huge nest, dislodged by the men, plummets earthward. A fourth man stood by with a shotgun in case the irate tenant returned home during the eviction. —(NEA Telephoto)

UNUSUAL WILL

$5,000 To Young Men If Members Of Church

TORONTO (CP)—It's worth $5,000 to John David Bradley and Brian Michael Bradley to join a Protestant church by the end of the year.

It's worth $5,000 to the United Church of Canada—and the church doesn't want it—if they don't.

John is 23. Brian 21. Their aunt, Ambia Lila Going, who died in 1937, left that sum in trust until 1950. Then it was to be divided equally between her nephews, providing they were "members and adherents in good faith and standing of a Protestant church."

If only one fulfilled the provision, he was to get the full $5,000. If neither did, the money was to go to the United Church pension fund.

The executor of the estate applied last May to Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court for direction, saying that neither nephew had qualified for the money. J. J. Robinette, counsel for the Bradleys, said the stipulation was invalid and asked that the money be paid without reference to their aunt's provision.

The chief justice suggested that the executor give the Bradleys

Wider Employment Urged For Former Servicemen

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Legion Wednesday passed a number of resolutions aimed at helping unemployed ex-servicemen in Canada.

It urged the federal government to survey the "extent and seriousness" of the unemployment problem and to "include the unregistered unemployed."

It asked the government to "take care of the large number of unemployed who... are unable to receive unemployment benefits." All citizens able to work should have the opportunity of receiving employment at wages sufficient to insure a decent standard of living.

It set up a standing committee to deal with unemployment problems.

The government will be asked to select only veterans as census-takers and to give veterans a five-year preference above the maximum limit of 25 years set for R.C.M.P. recruits.

The convention protested the sale of Canadian merchant ships "to other than Canadian interests without making replacement of the ships within a reasonable time."

It asked the government to inaugurate a program of build-

Reserves Judgment In Appeal About Car-Tram Crash

Judgment was reserved in Court of Appeal Wednesday on appeal of B.C. Electric Railway Co. Ltd., against a Supreme Court decision of March 29 granting damages to two Vancouver men following an automobile-streetcar collision in Vancouver in 1948.

Chief cause of discussion was the speed of the streetcar. E. A. Lucas, counsel for John McWilliam, driver of the automobile, claimed the streetcar's speed was excessive.

J. L. Ferris, counsel for the appellant, said too heavy an obligation was placed on a motorist if he was expected to avoid "insane acts" by others.

The "fullest opportunity to comply" with the terms of the bequest. That gives them until Dec. 31.

Sinnotts See Where Canadians Fought

Patrick J. Sinnott, Victoria lawyer, and his wife and daughter, on a visit to England, are touring Italy at the present time.

An air-mailed postcard sent Sept. 8 from Mr. Sinnott came from Regio, scene of battle for Canadians in the Second World War.

"From the hotel overlooking the river, shell-battered buildings on both sides are evidence of the results of grim warfare," he says. The Sinnotts spent two days at Pisa and will visit Naples, Florence and Venice among other places on their Italian tour.

Becher Bay Cruise

A two-day cruise to Becher Bay will wind up the weekly Royal Victoria Yacht Club summer sail and power boat cruises this week-end.

Boats will leave Saturday and those planning to take the cruise have been invited to the home of Col. Brooke Stephenson during the evening.

It is likely an impromptu race will be staged on the return route Sunday for the sail boats.

Triner Trophy Series Canceled

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Triner Trophy soccer series has been cancelled, John Richardson, provincial secretary of the Dominion Football Association, announced Wednesday.

St. Louis Simpkins had been scheduled to meet Vancouver City, Dominion champions, here later in the month to decide the North American Soccer championship.

Richardson said the two-game series was cancelled because of the "impossible demands" of the St. Louis team.

The U.S. team usually has been guaranteed $600 for the series. St. Louis asked $5,000.

The R.C.M.P. were provided with scarlet tunics in order to gratify the Indians' fondness for the uniforms of the British soldiers who had been stationed in the west.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Drugs May Be Used For Toxic Goiter

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

The thyroid is a gland of internal secretion which lies in the front of the neck. It does not have a duct or passageway to empty its secretions and therefore the hormone which it manufactures goes directly into the bloodstream.

More Suspect Reds Barred At T.L.C. Meeting

MONTREAL (CP)—The quiet annual convention in years of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Wednesday endorsed a batch of standard resolutions and underlined its tough new anti-Communist policy with a few flourishes.

It was learned that a United Textile Workers' delegate from Brantford, Ont., had been sent to Toronto on assignment after a speech to the convention Monday. Anthony Valente, president of the international union in Washington and a fraternal delegate here, sent William Stewart out of town.

At the same time, the T.L.C. credentials committee cut off 20 delegates suspected of Red leanings. Among them is R. Kent Rowley of Montreal, Canadian director of the T.W.U.

The convention also asked for federal and provincial action on long-term flood control measures.

Another major project advocated was the St. Lawrence River ship canal and the convention asked for completion of the Trans-Canada Highway.

All resolutions follow normal T.L.C. programs.

The convention is expected to complete its main business by Friday night, although it is possible it may stretch through over Saturday.

Mobilization Plans

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce here recommended an immediate declaration by the Canadian and United States governments of common principles to govern industrial mobilization, planning and procurement.

When behaving normally, the thyroid produces just the right amount of secretion for the needs of the body. It helps to regulate the actions of other internal glands and also to keep the heart rate regular.

If the thyroid gland starts misbehaving it may produce too much secretion or a secretion which is abnormal. The result is the development of a condition which is known as toxic goiter of which there are several kinds.

In a toxic goiter the thyroid becomes somewhat enlarged. The other symptoms vary but the most common besides enlargement are a rapid heart rate, bulging eyes, trembling of the hands, nervousness and loss of weight. Sometimes these symptoms alone are enough to make a diagnosis.

Almost always, however, doctors wish to have a metabolism test which measures more accurately the degree to which the thyroid is overactive. This is done early in the morning after eating. It is entirely painless.

MUST BE DISCOVERED EARLY

Toxic goiter should be discovered as soon as possible before it has produced damage which may be difficult or slow to overcome. The most common form of treatment has been surgery. This involves an operation in which part of the thyroid tissue is removed, leaving only enough to supply the normal needs of the body.

Recently some other methods besides surgery have begun to be used for toxic goiter. Drugs of the thioracil family have been used with success in some cases. Radioactive iodine is also a useful medical treatment.

Not all patients with toxic goiter can be successfully treated medically, however, and surgery will continue to be the best treatment for at least a number of patients for some time to come.

Group To Study Indian Rights Named Shortly

The government will appoint a committee within the next month to study civil rights and status of native Indians. It was learned today at the Legislative Buildings.

Meanwhile good progress was reported in the move to give Indian children full educational equality with white children.

Both questions were discussed at length at the last session of the Legislature and an act was passed authorizing the appointment of a civil rights committee to inquire into all matters affecting the welfare of B.C. Indians. On the education question, agreements have been signed with Campbell River and Terrace school districts allowing reserve Indian children to attend elementary and high schools with white children.

Similar arrangements have been made at Ashcroft and Telegraph Creek, and an arrangement in Prince Rupert school district is expected to be made shortly.

OTHER NEGOTIATIONS

Negotiations also are under way in the Quatsino, Alert Bay and Alberni school districts.

Of 5,700 Indian children in the province, 950 now are in provincial schools.

Under the plan for Indian youngsters to receive schooling at provincial schools, the federal government contributes to the cost of building and maintaining schools in proportion to the number of Indian children attending.

The salary of the Chief Justice of Canada is $20,000.

Display Of Fruits, Vegetables, Handicrafts Attracts Young And Old To Sooke Fair

G. Frisch, left, of Bridgetown, Barbadoes, B.W.I., is seen above at the Sooke Fall Fair held yesterday, admiring a five-pound sockeye salmon displayed by Joe Collins, foreman at the Sooke Harbor Fishing and Packing Co. Ltd. plant. Mr. Frisch, chef at the Empress Hotel from 1929 to 1932, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Glinz of Sooke.

One of the youngest spectators at the fair was Lillian Locke, seen above in the arms of Mrs. A. P. Llewellyn of Sooke. Mrs. Llewellyn is admiring a jar of preserved apricots, held by Mrs. K. Cains, also of Sooke. Preserved peaches, famous in Sooke for their quality, made a large part of the preserved fruit section at the fair.

Two contributors to the success of the Sooke Fall Fair were Mrs. C. C. Robertson, above left, and Mrs. G. Duncan Jr., who took time to admire a cake exhibited by Mrs. P. Wilford. Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Duncan are members of the Sooke Women's Institute, which had charge of refreshments at the fair.

Float Adrift

A naval landing float resembling a scow 60 feet by 12 feet, marked at each end "No. Y.C. 430" broke adrift under tow at 8 Tuesday night off Discovery Island, the Department of Transport revealed today.

Anyone sighting the float is requested to notify agent T. E. Morrison here giving position and time of sighting.

Quality Of Exhibits Outstanding At First Fair Held In Five Years

Long noted for the fertility of its soil, Sooke proved yesterday at its fall fair, first since 1945, that the seed of artistic appreciation has also taken firm root. Some of the Sooke artists work with plows, rakes and bone meal to produce beautiful colors in their fruits and vegetables. Others use paper, water colors, needle and thread, or weaving materials to make professional-looking paintings, trinkets, and exceedingly smart hooked rugs and sweaters.

PRaise FROM AN EXPERT

"The whole exhibition will bring credit to you," said Dr. J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, who opened the fair. "The exhibits are well placed and well displayed. Exhibitors are to be highly congratulated for their work."

Dr. Munro had no criticism to make, but suggested that with such a wealth of excellent potatoes shown, the group could be expanded from two to four classes.

"Quality is what to strive for, and they have it here," Dr. Munro told The Times later. "The exhibits in this fair would stand out anywhere in British Columbia."

The fair was held in Sooke Community Hall under the joint sponsorship of the Sooke Farmers' Institute and the Sooke Community Association, with E. W. Welsh as fair committee chairman and H. A. Piggott, secretary.

INDIANS' DISPLAY

A prominent display was entered by the Sooke Indians, with sets of matching raw wool sweaters and toques getting the most attention from the large crowd. There were also excellent examples of Indian weaving, and two pairs of beautifully carved wooden shoes, that would do credit to any Dutch woodcutter.

P. W. Taylor, instructor of the Sooke Sketch Club, was very proud of the work of six of his students.

"I'm not really a teacher," he said, pointing to various outdoor scenes on exhibit, "I show them how I would do it, then they go ahead."

THE WOMAN'S TOUCH

In the more traditional vein were the fruits and vegetables, and cooking exhibits. The latter included cakes, pies, preserves, bread, and cookies, to prove that the lady of the house is still the important cog in the farm machine.

The "lady of the house" also watches how her food is served. Table arrangements were a featured display in the fair, as were the exhibits of cut flowers.

According to Mr. Welsh there were a number of new exhibitors this year, with the garden produce section being the largest. Naturally the huge pumpkins, cabbage, and Hubbard squash overshadowed the smaller items, but the small fruits and berries were conspicuous by their color and tasty appearance.

MAIN PRIZE WINNERS

Children were not ignored in the long list of entries, with classes in penmanship, handicrafts, art, and woodwork. Other outstanding prize winners follow:

Arnold Glinz, long-time resident of Sooke, won the Colman Cup for securing the high aggregate score for exhibitors. As this is the third time Mr. Glinz has won the cup, he will keep it permanently.

A Victoria Times prize was won by Mrs. Kate Grainger for her chrysanthemum exhibit in the flower section.

Watches Coming At Half Price

WALTHAM, Mass. (BUP)—The Waltham Watch Company plant, closed since Feb. 3, was opened by some 250 employees Wednesday after being "seized" by the firm's trustees.

The skilled workmen are to put finishing touches on 242,000 watches to be sold at half-price on the Christmas market. The purpose of the sale is to give the financially ailing concern sufficient capital to resume full production.

Newly-discovered iron deposits in San Isidro, Venezuela, are believed to contain 600,000,000 tons of iron, the ore having a 75 per cent iron content.

Vancouver May Get 2 Symphonies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver may have two symphony orchestras this season.

It was reported here that an application for incorporation of the B.C. Philharmonic Society would be filed in Victoria shortly.

The conductor will be Jacques Singer, who was released by the Vancouver Symphony Society during the summer. Personnel manager of the new symphony will be Harry Gomez.

The Vancouver symphony will operate this season with guest conductors. It suffered heavy financial losses last season.

MADE IN CANADA

By ART STOTT

It could be a faded photograph which starts the stream of thought. It could be some line or description in a story, some bar of a half-forgotten song. It could be some unidentified key that unlocks the doors of recollection. Whatever the cause, most men at some time realize how dear to their memories are the scenes of their childhood—with or without the old oaken bucket. That's what gave the "Native's Return" impulse to Dr. William Robbins of the U.B.C.'s English department. Before Bill hit scholastic heights at Victoria High, Victoria College, and U.B.C., prior to study in London, Eng., and at the University of Toronto, he was a kid in Saanich. Somehow that barefoot boy image grew until he decided last week to tramp through boyhood's byways.

Stott

MAYBE BILL'S originality of thought and freshness of outlook kept him from the strictly conventional view of the dirt country road, with dust puffing up between his toes, or the woodland path, soft with pine-needles and cool green shade. Still his memories were something like that.

Only the roads of Saanich today, much as they need repair, aren't all dirt. They've been gravelled. When it comes to walking, Bill found rolling stones gather no traction. He found, too, that the three and four-hour journeys of childhood are only brisk hour walks for an adult, even if the adult's legs get a little rubbery from the prolonged strain on little-used muscles.

TREKS LIKE his, Robbins thinks, should be spread over a few weeks, not a couple of days. Maybe next year he can extend his pilgrimage a little. He might even get a vacation job taking a petition around Saanich for residents to sign in favor of unification of Saanich, in of Greater Victoria.

Bill had the familiar reaction of the older man going back to the hills of home. They weren't so high. The barns weren't so big. But there was a strong friendliness in old acquaintances that helps a man to get over the feeling that he's looking at his boyhood haunts through the wrong end of a telescope.

ONE OF THOSE points that occasionally bring the grammarians out swinging is the distinction between the words "shall" and "will" to denote simple futurity. The correct form, they point out, is: "I shall, thou shalt, he will, etc." The annoying part about slipshod common usage is that "shall" seems to have been jettisoned in favor of a universal "will"—no religious overtones implied. In the first person "will" indicates determination.

We'll go along with the grammarians if they'll be consistent. If they insist on "shall" then we want them to use the second person singular, "thou shalt." And where, except on the Shakespearean stage or in church, where youngsters say the Ten Commandments, are you going to hear that these days? The second person singular went missing a long time ago. Until the experts revive it, why bother about the "shalls" and "wills."

THERE'S A NICE distinction in French, if memory of high school language classes serves. "Thou" is the familiar, and affectionate form. When you've kissed the girl goodnight, you're entitled to call her "thou," but, shucks, who cares then?

In this acquisitive society, the accent is on "will." Ask the men who go to probate court. Nobody gets anything but a mild scholastic satisfaction from a "shall."

IN THE DAYS of the Hollywood controversy over the bow tie, the theory was advanced that men over 40 wore them as a final defiance against encroaching age—sort of a last, wild and despairing effort to appear young and jaunty.

Not me, though. I bought one to cover up the holes in my collar. When you get one of those nifty neckties that have stiffeners to hold the points down, they don't turn so well. Leastways, the slits where the stiffeners go show up when the collar's been ripped off and reversed. That's where the butterfly style comes in. Next stop is one of those flowing Bohemian numbers to hide the absence of a shirt.

B.C. Electric Seeks Right To Raise Amount Of Bill Charged To City

The B.C. Electric has made application to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to increase the charge against the City of Victoria for power consumed by the city's street lighting system.

The application was submitted this week after lengthy negotiations between the city and the company. The two have come to agreement on having power for street lights provided on a "multiple" system rather than on the present "series" system.

In the multiple system, the city will be able to take power for its lights right from B.C. Electric power lines running along the streets. Under the old system, all power for street lights was channelled into one station and carried from there to the light by city lines.

While the city will be paying at least $4,000 a year extra to the B.C. Electric for the new service, it will eliminate the need for carrying out costly expansion to its light station on Swift Street. Ken Reid, city lighting superintendent, explained today the Swift Street station was now

Natural Resource Field Never More Promising

Development of natural resources in Canada has never been more promising, according to delegates to the seventh annual convention of ministers of mines from Canadian provinces, now being held at the Empress Hotel.

Dr. A. O. Dufresne, deputy minister of mines in Quebec, said this morning that work on a 360-mile railroad to the fabulous Quebec-Labrador iron ore body is expected to start this fall.

"The ore is of very high grade," Dr. Dufresne said, "and ore reserves of considerable importance are known to exist. Full development is decided upon and financing has been arranged."

According to one of Dr. Dufresne's companions, Dr. I. W. Jones, production from the mine will be measured in trainloads, not carloads.

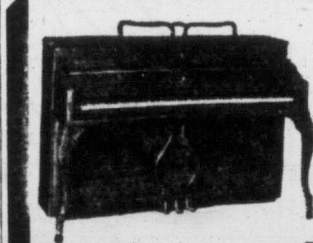

Ontario also is optimistic about steel production at Steep Rock Mine, which is now profitable and exposing new ore bodies, and in a new and promising asbestos development at

8,000 More Cars On B.C. Highways

Sale Of Gasoline Reaches All-Time High Of 15,883,724 Gallons

Nearly 8,000 more cars and trucks took to the highways of B.C. during July to bring the total number of motor vehicles in the province for the year to a record-breaking 234,711.

Total at July 31 last year was 203,911, according to figures made known today by the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Attorney-General's Department.

Of the 234,711 four-wheelers carrying the yellow and black licenses of B.C. now are 175,239 passenger cars and 59,472 commercial vehicles. Last year there were 149,431 cars and 54,480 commercial carriers.

There have been fewer motorcycles licensed this year to the end of July—4,145 compared to 4,176 last year.

Trailer registrations are up slightly—9,507 from 9,248.

Number of drivers' licenses has jumped from 274,245 last year to 297,763 this year.

Sales of gasoline in the province during July reached an all-time high.

They amounted to 15,883,724 gallons which is 8 per cent higher than the volume in June and 14 per cent higher than in July last year.

The Coal and Petroleum Board says the increase is probably due to the active tourist trade.

The Victoria area took 1,112,469 gallons during the month, compared to 1,091,341 gallons in July last year; Vancouver and district 6,432,292 compared to 6,340,966, and the rest of the province 8,358,963 compared with 7,269,812.

Curb Space At Garages Ridiculous, Says Citizen

Suggests City Council Check To Make More Parking Area Available

Victoria service stations are allowed too much space for driveways, Frank H. Partridge, 151 Beach Drive, has told the mayor and aldermen in a letter received at City Hall today.

Mr. Partridge describes the amount of space taken up by service station entrances as ridiculous. He asks that City Council give serious consideration to the matter.

"Now that the seriousness of the auto parking problem is being again considered, I would once again mention the amount of curb space given to or taken by service stations and other concerns is nothing short of ridiculous in view of the difficulties of the whole situation," he said.

Mr. Partridge was surprised to find that so many service stations have taken almost their entire frontage as driveway.

Mr. Partridge said he did not feel such should be allowed.

"An example of how little space is needed for entry and exit is Eaton's parking lot on View Street," he said.

Mr. Partridge also complained about certain stores with off-street loading space being given additional curb space.

"I feel the whole available curb space in the city should be thoroughly checked to give as much public parking space as can possibly be found and I do trust action will be taken by you."

JUNK YARD CHARGE

Leslie D. Foxgood, 1144 Queens Avenue, found guilty in court today of maintaining a junk yard without a permit, was remanded to Monday when he gave assurances he would clean up the Walnut Street lot by that date. A similar charge against Harry Haigh, 847 Balmoral Road, was dismissed. The building material complained of wasn't junk, the court decided.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Ready For College, Girl Wonders If She Should Stay Home With Widower Father

Dear Mary Haworth: Two years ago my mother died, leaving my father, older brother and me. I am 18 now and have arranged to enter college this fall.

I'd be home only for Thanksgiving, Christmas and a week in the spring, and I feel more and more every day how lonely my father is. His friends aren't so considerate as formerly, and he sort of has to make his own fun. He hasn't much to do evenings, and I've been staying home nights more often to keep him company. Instead of the usual one, he drinks two, sometimes three, nightcaps recently.

Because of all this I have applied to a nearby college that hasn't much academic standing. Nor does it have the courses I want. It has only local sororities and as a commuter I'd have no campus life there, so altogether it would be very much like going back to high school. When I think of these things I feel maybe I ought to stick to my original plan, if only for one year, so that I can have a taste of real college life. But is that selfish of me? Is it my duty to stay home?

DREAMS REMORSE IN LATER YEARS

My brother, Bud, is going to a college that alternates study with work experience, and he would be home every two months on that schedule. But even when he is living at home he is usually "out," and in any case dad will be entirely alone for at least five months if I go away.

If I go, I fear that when I am 40 I shall be sorry that I wasn't more considerate of my father. But then if I stay home I might be sorry I didn't go to a good college. I must make a final decision soon. Please help me, S. C.

POSSIBLY FATHER FEELS TIED DOWN

Dear S. C.: Your theory that the age of remorse starts around 40—or might for you, if you went off to college, leaving your father in a lonely house—suggests that he is fortyish. I think you are associating his age with his moody air of retrospective melancholy nowadays. And if I have guessed his approximate age, then I must say he is a long way from being in his second childhood, and I venture to hope that you've been misreading the meaning of his solitary moping around the house.

In staying close home most evenings, and taking several sniffers to relieve boredom, maybe he is trying to make up to you for your mother's death. I can imagine that he is trying to take her place as the family balance wheel, after his day's work is done; trying to be the dutiful parent always there, to keep you securely anchored against whatever night-time temptations and dangers revolve around a "motherless girl."

You feel you are giving up good times for his sake, and very likely he is acting on similar feelings, carefully doing his bit, so he thinks, to make your lonely "half a loaf" of home life seem as normal as possible, before you leave for college.

FOOTLOOSE LIFE MIGHT HELP DAD

Naturally one's papa in middle age looks old and rather done for, according to the view of 18. But to persons in his own age bracket he seems middling young and full of promise yet, I daresay. All fortyish persons in average good health confidently feel that they've got a lot of life left in them yet, even though blows and bereavement have taken toll. And the same is true of hearty types up into the fifties, sixties and beyond.

Furthermore I think you should know that older folk, in the forties and above, usually find more satisfaction in the company of their peers than in a steady diet of adolescent society, whether in the family or outside of it.

Now for advice, why don't you discuss your uncertainties with your dad? Then if he says go ahead to the college of your choice, I think you should go. If he feels you are busy and happy in model surroundings, so that he is at ease about your welfare, he probably will make constructive use of his footloose freedom to revive old friendships, and maybe add new ones, during your absence. New Sweaters Worn Over Pyjamas, Evening Gowns!

By PENNY SAVER

While holidaying in the beeg country south of the border a few weeks ago, I noticed any number of the feminine population wearing the latest in sweater treatments. Featuring the fullness of a dollman sleeve, three-quarter length, and a neat little two-button collar, the sweater is styled with cut-away front. They were being worn over bathing suits, summer cottons and on one occasion serving the purpose of a summer jacket over a light evening gown.

After regarding its popularity there, I thought it best I locate the sweater in our fair city. Sure 'nuf, gals, I found the little charmer selling for $3.95, in soft wool, in pink and white. The clerk in the shop said they expected a wider range of colors very soon. By the way, mom, if you think this type of sweater is not your cup of tea, just you try wearing it as a bed jacket. Sensational!

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By MARGUERITE DALZIEL

Fashion Turning Point

The turning season opens up new horizons in fashion circles. Style and beauty kings and queens deluge us with hosts of wondrous proclamations in the way of new miracles in make-ups—sumptuous and casual creations in elegant and simple fabrics—and fascinating trends in fashions.

For instance, we've been hearing and reading a great deal about longer hair for fall. But we haven't heard just how we are to suddenly acquire a luxuriant head of long shining tresses, after following fashion decrees for spring and summer with neat cropped heads.

While he hasn't got a solution to the problem, Christian Dior does send us a few helpful suggestions for that between and betwixt time when hair is neither short nor long.

He tells us we will be chic if we brush hair back into as much of a neat little bun at the nape of the neck as possible. Then add an extra coil of hair or of tulle, which is swirled round into a small cone and posed just over the forehead.

Jacques Fath advises us to brush the hair back without a parting, but with curls flatteringly brushed over the ears. Most of the experts have one suggestion in common though, and that is "straight hair with the only curl if any, at the ends."

Length of skirts is another controversial topic.

From eastern centres comes word that while skirts are definitely shorter, (the popular length being from 14 inches to 15 inches from the ground) the well-dressed woman will still be quite up-to-the-minute wearing the length of skirt she feels to be most becoming to her height and figure.

This season calls for the svelte sheath on long, slender lines. Departures from the basic form include tunics made with apron over skirts or free swinging panels that modify the severe line. New are pleats from shoulder to hemline, or godets that break at the knee to soften the pencil slimmness.

The black dress which most authorities acknowledge as the key garment in the well-dressed woman's wardrobe, is shown in fine rayon crepe this season because it handles easily and provides an excellent foil for jewels or the touch of velvet that sparks this season.

There is news in jewelry. Rhinestones are predominant. But turquoise, rubies, sapphires and emeralds are used as colored stones for choker necklaces, as well as for numerous pins which have a third dimensional effect. These pins are worn on shoulders and cuffs, and match either earrings, necklaces or bracelets.

Pearls which have always been the classic jewelry, are getting the go-by this season. When used by well-known designers, they are either combined with grey, or forsake their natural opalescence for a variety of colors.

Pierced ears are attaining more popularity than reached in the past 10 years, according to jewelry designers. They say the trend is to small earrings of diamond's set in palladium. They've coined a new name for them, too, "channeled lobes."

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

So you're going to have a baby? If this is the first baby and the parents are young this will come, in some cases, as a tremendous shock. They may find in it the prospect of unwelcome responsibilities and the loss of their youth. They had believed, presumably, that marriage would be all gaiety and dancing with nothing so serious, immediately, as rearing a child.

The young wife will suspect that she is pregnant if she misses at least two periods. If she also feels squeamish about her food, urinates often and her breasts feel sore and tingly, she may be sure that these are all nature's warning of the coming event.

This is the time to go to a doctor and put herself in his care. If she lives in a strange community she would do well to write home to her own physician and have him recommend a good obstetrician in her new town. It may be one of his own acquaintances, or one whose medical directory history inspires confidence.

She may also write to her county medical society (insert name of her own county and look this up in the telephone directory) and the secretary will be happy to recommend several men from which list she can choose.

Her regimen, her diet, will be directed by the doctor whom she consults. She will make regular monthly visits to him for physical checkups and in the last month or two will go perhaps once weekly. These visits will be included in the over-all charge her doctor will make for his services.

Our leaflet No. 1, "The Prospective Mother," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Miss Elizabeth Bleakney is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stuart Bleakney, 651 Beach Drive.

Chaperons Young Women On 2-Month Tour Abroad

A tour of England and Scotland with a visit to Paris sounds wonderful at any time. But attractive Elizabeth Bleakney had the added fascination of chaperoning 17 young women, between the ages of 18 and 23, on such a trip this summer.

A holiday tour which included a meeting with a famed actress, visits to ancient cathedrals, attending Shakespeare's plays, and being entertained by the commander-in-chief of the British navy.

Miss Bleakney, on the staff of Crofton House School, Vancouver, for the past eight years, with Miss Cecile Swanson, staff member of York House School, and daughter of Dean, Cecil Swanson, Vancouver, had planned for several months to take a group of their young students abroad.

They contacted Major F. J. Ney, founder of Overseas Education League of Canada, submitted the itinerary they planned, and the trip was arranged.

The group saw all the things that the average tourist sees and a great deal more. In an interview yesterday afternoon Miss Bleakney listed a few of the highlights which most impressed her youthful companions.

She told of attending a party given for the girls where they danced authentic Scottish reels and were piped into supper in traditional manner.

Of a two-day stay at Cambridge where they visited the college and were entertained by summer students; two days at Stratford-on-Avon where they attended two of Shakespeare's plays; week-end study course at a college on one of the old estates, where they met students from every part of the world.

The girls also had the privilege of spending an afternoon with Gwen, Francon-Davies, foremost British actress, and member of the Stratford-on-Avon Company.

They visited Portsmouth at the invitation of the commander-in-chief of the navy and were entertained aboard the flagship Duke of York.

Most of the famed cathedrals, including St. Andrew's College, one of the oldest Scottish universities, were on their itinerary.

In Cambridge and York, the girls were guests in private homes. Everyone was most kind to the young Canadian visitors. Miss Bleakney states, and explains that from taxi-cab drivers to telephone operators, they couldn't do enough for the visitors when it was learned that they were from Canada.

The group sailed for home aboard the Empress of Canada. Miss Shirley Cameron and Miss Elizabeth Molsen of Victoria, were among those who traveled with the teachers.

To Mark Anniversary

The 99th anniversary of Rebekah Degree in Oddfellowship will be commemorated in Oak Bay United Church, corner Mitchell and Granite Streets Sunday at 7.15 p.m. There will be special service and music.

WED 71 YEARS, ADVICE IS KEEP BUSY

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Married 71 years, Mr. and Mrs. D. Frank Roy of Brant County have a suggestion for making a success of marriage: Maintain a cheerful outlook and always keep busy.

At 93, Mr. Roy still keeps busy on the farm that has been in the family for more than a century. He raises chickens and does odd chores around the farm.

Mrs. Roy, who admits only that she is a few years younger than her husband, does her own housework, her shopping and says she likes the movies. She made her annual trip to the Canadian National Exhibition again this year, but couldn't persuade her husband to go along.

"When you get up in your 90s, you won't want to go to the fair," he told her.

Inventors Asked To Plan Army Arctic Machines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Technical problems of military operations in Arctic areas seem to be giving the U.S. defence department considerable concern.

It wants, for example, some way to erase the tracks men and vehicles leave in the snow and a device to burrow large holes in snow on ice leaving the surface "essentially flat for camouflage."

This was indicated by a list of problems made public Wednesday by the defence department's scientist-advisers in the hope of getting solutions or good ideas from anyone.

Of 21 technical problems compiled by the National Inventors' Council with the co-operation of the armed services, at least 16 are plainly connected with military difficulties under extreme cold.

The council appealed for ideas on such problems as:

An "extra light-weight, low ground-pressure, gasoline-operated over-snow vehicle" usable as "a prime mover for sleds or men and to break trail in snow for men equipped with snowshoes or skis." The weight, combat loaded, should approximate 1,000 pounds.

They Mean Business

Paul Douglas obviously means business, and has Richard Widmark in back of him, as he begins the search for an unknown killer who has been exposed to plague and by his freedom can contaminate an entire city in "Panic in the Streets," exciting new melodrama from 20th Century-Fox at the Odeon Theatre, starting today. Filmed entirely in the river city of New Orleans, where the story takes place, "Panic in the Streets" also stars Barbara Bel Geddes, features Walter Jack Palance and Zero Mostel, and was directed by Broadway and Hollywood's top director, Elia Kazan.

"If I ever win a finesse," Hard Luck Joe complained bitterly, "I am going to go right out and paint the town red!"

North didn't answer. Long experience had taught him that it was hopeless to argue with Hard Luck Joe.

West had opened the seven of spades, and Joe won the trick with dummy's ace. He next took the heart finesse, losing to West's queen. West led another spade, and South ruffed with the six of hearts. Joe next laid down the ace and king of hearts, drawing trumps.

Looking around for new worlds to conquer, Joe went after the clubs. West took the ace of clubs, and returned his last spade, forcing Joe to use up his last trump. Joe then cashed the rest of his clubs, discarding dummy's last spade on the fourth club.

The contract now depended on a successful diamond finesse. However, when Joe finessed the queen of diamonds, East was able to win with the king of diamonds and cash a spade, setting the contract.

North said that Joe should have made his contract. As a matter of fact, he could have done so in two different ways. Do you see how? Decide for yourself before you read on.

The simplest way for Joe to make his contract was to refrain from taking a finesse in trumps. He could well afford to give up a trump, a diamond and a club. He could not afford to let the enemy gain the lead often enough to punch out his trumps with consistent spade leads.

After winning the first trick with the ace of spades, Joe should have taken two rounds of trumps with his ace and king. He could then begin the clubs (if he wished). West could take the ace of clubs and cash the queen of hearts.

A spade continuation at that point would force Joe to ruff but Joe would still have one trump left. He could therefore afford to lose the diamond finesse and still keep control of the hand.

Even after Joe made the mistake of taking the trump finesse, he could still have made his contract by attacking the diamonds before starting the clubs. If he had done so, East would take the king of diamonds and lead the third round of spades, forcing out Joe's last trump.

Joe would eventually have to lead clubs, giving the lead to West. At that point, however, West would be unable to lead another spade. Joe would therefore make his contract.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Screen Writers Actually Hard-Working Craftsmen

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Time now to give a few thoughts to that species of Hollywood life known as the screen writer. The movie scrivener is a much-maligned gent. He is branded as everything from a soul-selling hack to heaven knows what, and is often pictured as having wild hair, loud shirts and two swimming pools.

Actually, the screen writer is a craftsman who works hard at his profession. Take Ronald MacDougall. He wears neat suits with white shirts and owns but one swimming pool. He is good-looking enough to be an actor, which he was until he discovered he could make more money with a typewriter.

PET JOKES
Like actors who have their favorite performances, writers have pet wisecracks. MacDougall was telling me his favorite, which was born in Joan Crawford's house.

Supporting Sooke Scholarship Fund

Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce will give its support to the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute in the women's effort to establish a scholarship fund—it was decided at the chamber's regular meeting last week-end.

Walter Conder and J. Elliott will represent the chamber regarding the scholarship, planned to assist the local student making highest marks in university entrance examinations in attending Victoria College or University of British Columbia.

The tourist committee of the chamber presented tourist folders of the area, which are now being distributed to travel agencies. The chamber will also sponsor a lecture and color film on Switzerland, to be given at Sooke Community Hall, Nov. 2.

MacDougall, producer Jerry Wald and director Mike Curtiz were visiting the actress to discuss "Mildred Pierce." They were ushered into a beautiful den with walls and furniture of leather.

"Hm," said the writer, "this must be like living in a wallet." Nobody laughed. MacDougall tried to put the line in the script and was told it wasn't funny. He tried to inject it into three other scripts, but it was always tossed out. Finally he managed to slip it into "June Bride." "It got a big laugh," he added happily.

AND PRIVATE ONES

Another MacDougall favorite came in "Mildred Pierce." Eve Arden observed Jack Carson giving her an all-inclusive glance. "Leave something on me," she said, "I'll catch cold."

Film writers also cherish their own private jokes which don't get in the script. One of MacDougall's pets was a comment on a moth-eaten film script about an air squadron. Borrowing an old cliché, he said: "You can't send the boys up in that script; it's murder."

Postpone Hearing

Preliminary hearing of Lawrence Hagan, Victoria, on a charge of retaining stolen goods of over the value of $25, was adjourned to next Tuesday in city police court today. Remand was agreed to when C. L. Harrison told the court the California witness in the case was coming here.

It was thought earlier that this evidence would have to be taken by a U.S. commission.

Our business, chiefly, is selling new Pontiac-Famous product of the World's Largest Manufacturer.

Like other dealers, we accept used cars in part payment. And there is where a great difference in merchandising policies can become apparent.

Our used car prices MUST conform to the values you are entitled to receive.

We urge you to look at the others, but SEE OUR VALUES before you buy.

It is your privilege and your PROFIT.

The great old game of horse-shoe still is popular. In many places it is played more often than in years gone by.

When I was a boy, I used real horseshoes to throw, or pitch, at the stakes. They were much smaller than those which are standard nowadays. What a hoof would be needed to wear a standard horseshoe of the present time!

I enjoyed playing with the old type of horseshoes during my boyhood, but I made a mistake then which I never have repeated. I made bets on some of the games. That took away enjoyment of the game, and made a player think of a nickel or a dime or a cent instead of the real sport.

One day—the last day I made any bets—I played with a chum named Vernon Birong. We started making the bets high, and before the day was over I owed him something like a million dollars. Needless to say, Vernon failed to collect his million. To this day, he has not asked me to pay up. If he does ask, I wonder where I shall get the money!

The value of good sport hardly can be measured in money. If it could be, I might say that I have had a million dollars' worth of pleasure in playing horseshoes since—at the age of about 10—I gave up the idea of betting on it. Every spring I start playing the game again, and the sharper the pitching the better I like it. I throw more ringers when my opponent is hard to beat.

Last summer I had several matches with Mr. Herbert Schwarze, who was for a time the world's champion shotputter. He is skillful with the "shoes," and I lost the majority of the games we played, but I won the final series.

Please notice that I said Mr. Schwarze used to be the champion shotputter, not the champion horseshoe pitcher. If I played against a professional horseshoe player, I might find it hard to make a single point. Such a player is likely to pitch 15 or 20 ringers in succession, but I seldom make more than one ringer in three pitches. Just the same, horseshoe is one of my favorite sports, and I suggest it as a good contest for any man or boy. I know an eight-year-old girl who likes to play it, but she Q.—knows a lot of (dwamam) throws at a distance of only 10 feet from the stake.

MILK THAT WHIPS

Carnation Evaporated Milk will replace cream for many purposes, including whipping.

Carnation costs less than 1/2 as much as whipping cream.

Carnation whips beautifully, rapidly. Use same amount of undiluted Carnation as you would of cream.

Follow These Directions

Chill Carnation icy-cold by leaving in freezing tray of refrigerator until ice crystals start to form; or put can under freezing coils in refrigerator overnight; or put can on ice overnight. Have beater and bowl very cold. Whip rapidly.

For topping cakes and desserts, beat in 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1/2 cup sugar for each cup of Carnation.

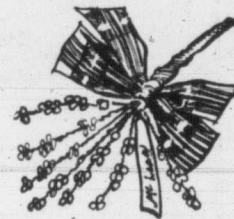

Carnation MILK

A CANADIAN PRODUCT

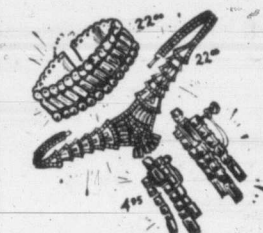

Carnation is good, whole cows' milk, evaporated to double richness—homogenized and heat-refined for heavier, creamier smoothness and richer flavor. Undiluted, it replaces expensive cream. Diluted, 50-50 with water, Carnation is fine, safe, longer-keeping milk for any use. "From Contented Cows"

at EATON'S FASHION DRAMATIZES THE Slender Silhouette

There is a marked change in the Fall silhouette. The outline is slender, tracing a natural shoulder, a defined waistline (but watch for the effect of a lowered line); a narrowed skirt, often with low-placed godets, flares and pleats for walking ease. The polished look of this dramatic line is reflected again in fabrics . . . very soft to touch; in gem-inspired colours, subtle tones. This sleek and slender way of fashion looks new, refreshing, has a delicate air of luxury. You'll see it in coats, suits, dresses . . . presented for you on EATON'S Fashion Floor Friday.
